QUESTION RAISED AT ALLIED MEETING ON SECURITY OF GERMAN LOAN

MacDonald Tells Conference That Agreement on Sanctions Is Not Deemed Satisfactory.

AMERICAN BANKERS OBJECT TO PLAN

Thomas W. Lamont Reminds Herriot That Money Is to Be Loaned to Reich, Not France.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON, London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
LONDON, July 22.—Premier MacDonald exploded a bombshell under the principals at the allied conference which is seeking a way to make the Dawes report operative, yesterday, by stating that the agreement reached on sanctions and default by Subcommittee No. 2 was not thought by the principal executive bankers of the German loan to represent good enough security.

The British Premier's announcement followed a private discussion with Charles E. Hughes, American Secretary of State. That appears to have been the starting point of the present hitch or deadlock, as it is variously described.

As usual, both in war and diplomacy, when things are going badly,
the first step is to turn down the heat, and only vague or misleading statements are available through official sources. After discussions in American, British,
French, Belgian and Italian circles,
I believe the actual facts can be deduced with some approach to accuracy under the reservation that as a whole the position is enveloped in the fog of diplomacy and that certainty in all details is not attainable.

Objections to the agreement reached by the subcommittee are either British or American in origin. It is certain they were vehemently upheld by important British bankers. They appear to be based on the belief that such concessions were made to France that the security offered for the loan is illusory.

In particular, article 4, under which if sanctions are taken against Germany, service of the loan is guaranteed and is based on the proceeds of the sanctions—is questioned in both British and American banking circles. It is stated here, although I cannot confirm this, that these objections have the support of Secretary Hughes.

It is charged by the French that the British are behind this move, which is described as going back on an accomplished bargain, and that the Americans have been put in by the British as stalking horses to bear the blame. I believe this is wrong, and that the general press demand for more security for the loan and for good will on the part of Germany lies with the Americans acting with the British, and that it has the support of Secretary Hughes.

Intense activity among the big bankers followed MacDonald's speech at the morning meeting of the "Big Five"—the Premiers of England, France and Belgium, Finances Minister de Stefani of Italy, and Ambassador Kellogg. Etienne Clémentel, French Finance Minister, luncheon with Reginald Mc-Donald.

Question of Security Raised.
Following this there was a meeting in Chancellor Snowden's room of the House of Commons of Mr.
MacDonald, Dr. Stefani, Sir Robert Cecil, Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and Thomas W. Lamont, who for the first time, thus emerged in the open in loan negotiations.

At this meeting it is believed the question of security for the loan was discussed and that a serious row arose between Anglo-American bankers and the French demand for the right of separate action against Germany in the event of a default and a subsequent failure of allies to agree on punitive measures.

Another point of acrimony was the position of an American official on the Reparations Commission. Since the adoption by the subcommittee of an amendment to the Versailles treaty

An open-air theater, patterned after the St. Louis Municipal The-next summer in Atlanta, Ga., with a program of light opera such as the St. Louis theater presents. C.

B. Bidwell, manager of the new en-after several days devoted to a study of the theater here.

The Atlanta theater, according to present plans, will seat about 8000 persons and will adhere closely to the successful policy of the St. Louis organization. Bidwell said the theater association composed of Atlanta business men has been organized and the work of building
the theater will begin soon.

2 NEGROES HELD AFTER KILLING OF GIRL IN HOLDUP

Father, Whom Young Woman Was Aiding
When Shot, Said to Have Identified Prisoners.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MOONSHINE, Ill., July 22.—Two negroes were arrested here today as suspects in the slaying of Miss Daisy Wilson, 18 years old, who was shot and killed at 1:15 a. m.
today when she went to the assistance of her father, who was being resisted by the attempt of two negroes to hold him up at his country store near Villa Ridge, Ill.
J. H. Wilson, the father, who was severely beaten, is said to have identified the negroes as the assailants. The negroes, arrested in the railway yards here, declared
they came from Memphis on a freight train which reached here around 7:30 this morning, and denied any knowledge of the crime.

Bloodhounds Lost Trail.
The arrest came after a posse of armed men, led by Sheriff I. J.
Hudson of Pulaski County, had spent hours searching the countryside, following bloodhounds hurried here from Water Valley, Ky. The hogs lost the trail before the two suspects were arrested.

The negroes, after being taken to the Wilson home for identification purposes, were lodged in the city jail here, but a crowd of several hundred men quickly gathered and there were mutterings of mob violence.
Sheriff Hudson and H. F.
Moreland, a Ku Klux Klan organizer, who has been sworn in as a Deputy Sheriff succeeded in dispersing the crowd by declaring that attorneys to take the negroes from the authorities would be met by gun fire and by urging that the law be allowed to take its course.

The negroes were then taken to the county jail at Mound City, in automobiles guarded by 16 special deputies. Fearing a possible new outbreak of mob spirit, however, Sheriff Hudson was considering removing the negroes to a jail farther from the scene of the crime.

Prisoners Recently Escaped.
The prisoners, officers said after they had been taken from Mound City, were the same negroes who escaped from the authorities here three days ago after they had been arrested on charges of robbing a garage.

Wilson's identification of them was not positive at first, but later he declared he was more certain when a neighbor identified them as men he had seen loitering about the day before the killing.

The shooting occurred after Wilson had been called from his home
by two negroes, who said they wanted to buy provisions. In the store, one drew a revolver, but Wilson, who was unarmed, refused to grapple with him. Hearing the struggle, his daughter ran from the home to her father's assistance.

The struggle carried the four to the door and the girl was thrown out. As she fell, a shot was fired, the bullet striking her in the head,
and the negroes fled.

Seymour Welch, a neighbor of the Wilsons, fled today, in front of the Wilson home, from heart disease, aggravated by excitement.

STUDENT SLAYERS PREFER PRISON TO LIFE IN ASYLUM

STATE TO OFFER THEIR CONFESSIONS

From Death Penalty Opened by Defense Strategy, Is Lawyers' View.

BY PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 22.—The startling move yesterday of counsel for Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers and slayers of 14-year-old Robert Franks, in changing their plea from one of not guilty to one of guilty, appeared on its face, to be a dramatic reversal of the defense's position, amounting almost to surrender, but as lawyers today analyzed the move, they expressed a growing conviction that the change chiefly indicated that the defense preferred its chances of escaping the death penalty by making a bid for penitentiary sentences over its chances of escaping
by the insanity plea.

In view of the slight difference between a life sentence in prison and a life sentence in an asylum for the criminally insane, and in view of the advantages seen in a plea of guilty over that of a plea of not guilty, experts were of the opinion that the move was a shrewd
one, fully worthy of that veteran defender, Clarence Darrow, who is credited with conceiving it.

Prefer Prison to Asylum

The situation is explained as follows: Under a plea of not guilty,
with an insanity defense, a verdict of guilty could result in hanging, while a verdict of not guilty would mean incarceration in an asylum.
Under the plea of guilty, the penalty also may be death, but if the defense can succeed in creating a doubt in the mind of the court as to the mental responsibility of the defendants at the time of the crime, the sentence may be mitigated to life imprisonment.

As a matter of fact, there is reason to believe that the families of the youths would prefer the stigma of imprisonment to the taint of insanity.

Still another side of the matter was expressed by Benjamin Bach-rach, of defense counsel, who declared: "Both the Loeb and Leopold families have felt a keen sense of their duty to the public after this tragedy, and we do not want the public to feel that we had gone into court and obtained through legal trickery the freedom of two boys who committed a wanton murder. Moreover, we wanted to avoid the spectacle which so often happens in cases of this sort,
when a plea of insanity is followed by quick recovery and freedom.
Nobody connected with the defense has any disposition to free these boys, and none of us has any desire to see them anywhere except in the penitentiary."

Other Avenues of Escape.
In changing its tactics, the defense reserves the full right to present all its evidence of mental responsibility, which, applying the admittedly heavy burden of establishing a complete insanity defense.
This, it is believed, would have been more difficult than the present problem of presenting enough evidence to mitigate the punishment.

Still other avenues of escape are opened up by the defense strategy
in the minds of local attorneys.
They point out that Judge Caverly, before whom defense attorneys are to argue, the punishment is to be begun tomorrow, can at any time
he chooses order a sanity hearing for the boys. If they were found insane by a jury, committed to an asylum would follow. If found sane the present situation would then recur.

Again, it would be possible, after they are sentenced, for the defense to ask for a sanity hearing on the ground that they have become insane after being sentenced, such an instance recently occurred in Illinois, in the case of Gene Geary, who was found insane after being sentenced to death and now is in an asylum.

Definition of Legal Insanity.
Legal insanity, in this State, is plainly defined in Supreme Court decisions, and consists simply in this: To be legally insane, the criminal must have been unable to distinguish right from wrong at the time of the crime, or, being able

"CHURCH IS JUST AHEAD OF FORCES OF DISSOLUTION"

Report on Survey Made Here in 1921-22 Says Steps Must Be Taken to Remedy Situation.

600,000 LISTED AS CHURCHGOERS

Total Includes 325,173
Protestants and 302,270
Catholics—Nonadherents
Number 179,454.

St. Louis churches as a body are keeping just a little ahead of the forces of dissolution and failure.
The question of the future is frankly that of hanging together or hanging separately. It is entirely possible that the whole colossal fabric of the St. Louis church may be worth less than its carrying charges tomorrow. Only by a succession of vigorous steps is there any assurance that the second million of St. Louis people will be better served than the first million, or that the church and city of tomorrow will be more worthy than those of today.

This statement forms the conclusion of "the St. Louis Church Survey," a volume of 328 pages, which appeared today. It was written by the Rev. H. Paul Douglas, who conducted a survey of St. Louis churches here in 1921-22. Under the auspices of the St. Louis Church Federation and the Institute of Social and Religious Research, with headquarters in New York. The Rev. Mr. Douglas, whose home is in Montclair, N. J., is former pastor of the First Congregational Church of Springfield, Mo. The book which is amply illustrated and contains many charts and diagrams,
was published by the George H.
Doran Co. of New York.

The conclusions of the survey,
and most of its detailed information, relate chiefly to the Protestant churches, in whose interest the survey was made. Statistics as to the Catholic and Jewish churches are cited at some points, for comparison.

"City Church a High Hazard"

"The City Church a High Hazard" is the caption of the final chapter. It is suggested that, if church fortunes were insurable, there are reasons to believe that the average St. Louis church would not be considered a good risk.

As an element of apparent encouragement, it is stated that the Protestant churches of St. Louis are growing faster than the city's population, the increase between 1900 and 1920 being 34 per cent in population and 59 per cent in church membership, with a 41 per cent increase in Sunday school enrollment. In this city's suburbs, it is stated, the churches gained 184 per cent while the population gained 101 per cent.

"But it is a question," the writer continues, "whether Protestant growth can fairly be contrasted with the total increase of population, for the reason that foreign-born people are little open to Protestantism's appeal. Now, foreign-born population in St. Louis has declined, relative to native-born. The Protestant church ought to catch up with the urban problem, because it is now dealing with people of its own sort."

Protestant Gain Shown.

It is shown that the Protestant churches have gained, in the city

3,000 CIVILIAN CASUALTIES
REPORTED AT SAO PAULO

Advices to Washington, However, Say No Americans Were Injured in Fighting in the Brazilian Revolt.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 22.—Three thousand civilians are reported to have been killed and injured in fighting at Sao Paulo between Brazilian Federal and revolutionary forces.

The heaviest fighting of the revolt, the message said, took place during the night of July 19, but the result did not materially change the situation.

The rebel forces, it was said, appear to be well equipped with arms, ammunition and food. Their strength was estimated at 10,000 or more.

The American Consul at Sao Paulo, Arminius T. Haebler, and American Trade Commissioner Cassell were reported "well and safe."

The food supply of Sao Paulo was declared to be adequate, but thousands of residents had left the city. Americans in Sao Paulo are housed in the districts described as being "most adequately protected."
The Brazilian forces at Sao Paulo are being further strengthened by reinforcements by the Government from various points.

Divorces at $1.50 in 5 Minutes in Russia; Misconduct No Cause

Under New Soviet Decree No Person May Remarry More Than Three Times in Year.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, July 22.—Soviet Russia offers far more advantages to persons seeking easy and quick divorces than perhaps any place in the world.

Under a new decree a divorce can be had within five minutes at a cost of $1.50, provided both parties agree to the dissolution of the marriage ties. If, however, one party objects to dissolution, the case must be referred to the courts, which will decide the question on its merits.

Misconduct does not constitute a valid reason for the annulment of marriage ties, but desertion, religious superstition, excessive religious piety, incompatibility of temperament and divergence in political views are held to be sufficient causes. No Russian may obtain a divorce and remarry more than three times within one year.

In consequence of the flexibility of the Soviet civil code covering domestic relations, divorces in the Moscow district increased by 45 per cent during the first six months of 1924, as compared with 1923.

CHEESEMAKERS IN FRANCE LOSE CAMBERT DECISION

Court Rules Trade Name Is for Certain Kind, Doesn't Mean
Only Where It Is Made.

By the Associated Press.
LOCHES, France, July 22.—A Camembert cheese, be it ever so humble, does not have to come from Camembert in order to have the right to call itself by that name,
a court decided here after hearing arguments of counsel for an association of cheese makers from Normandy. The cheese men claimed that a local dairy association had infringed their copyright by selling as Camembert cheese a product that was not made in Camembert, a district of Normandy.

The court held that Camembert has come to be a designation of a certain kind of cheese and was not a false trade description, even if the article in question was not made at or near Camembert.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 22.—
Mrs. Oscar Green of Brooklyn, N.
Y., was killed in her berth on the steamer Boston in the collision with the Swiftarrow last night.

The meeting in the fog of the Boston and the Swiftarrow was described by Chief Officer A. C. Morton of the Boston. With Capt. Alfred W. C. Call, skipper of the Boston, and a quartermaster, Morton was on the bridge when the crash came.

The calm of passengers, women and men, in the exciting moments of the early morning; the manner in which the watertight compartments functioned to keep the Boston afloat; and the success with which the transfer of the hundreds of passengers to other vessels was accomplished with loss of life only in the collision itself were emphasized in his story.

By the Associated Press.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 22.—
Four passengers, three men and one woman, are known to be dead and several seriously injured, as a result of the oil tanker Swiftarrow ramming the Eastern Steamship Co.'s liner, Boston, carrying 896 passengers, off Point Judith, late last night. The bodies of three were seen in the wreckage of two staterooms when the Boston was towed into Newport harbor and beached today.

Identification of the bodies was impossible. They were caught behind ships' plates that had been crushed in and it was said that the plates would have to be cut, with gas torches before the bodies could be extricated.

The three bodies brought in here
on the Boston were taken ashore this afternoon by a navy tug. The Coroner first paid a visit to the ship.

Woman Killed in Stateroom.
The woman killed in her stateroom probably was Mrs. C. Copeland of Brookline, Mass., wife of the passenger who died from injuries in the hospital here today.

The Coroner said that while identification was not absolute, he believed the woman was Mrs. Copeland.

Copeland was rushed to this port on board the coast guard cutter Acushnet and taken to a hospital, where it was said that his leg and shoulder were broken and he had suffered internal injuries. He died while the doctors were preparing for an operation.

Passengers and 185 members of the crew were taken off in lifeboats and transferred to steamers and naval vessels, which hurried to the scene after receiving the Boston's radio calls for help. A few were landed here by the steamer Commonwealth, which proceeded to Fall River with other survivors. A large number went aboard the Fall River liner Princilla, which arrived in New York this afternoon. Among those on the Princilla was the nurse of the Boston, who took with him the only available passenger list.

HYDE RESCINDS PAROLE OF SECOND TERM MURDERER

Governor Declares He Did Not Know Stoner Had Served Time for Another Killing.

NOT INFORMED OF PREVIOUS PARDON

Prisoner Had Not Been Released, as Executive Failed to Sign Order Before Recent Trip.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 22.—The parole order which would have freed Stoner, 33 years old, of St. Joseph, from his second sentence of life imprisonment in the State Penitentiary for murder was rescinded by Gov. Hyde late yesterday afternoon because the Governor said he did not know when he signed the parole order that Stoner was a "second-killer" for murder and previously had been pardoned by Gov. Dockery in 1904 for a like crime. Stoner had not been released from the Penitentiary although Gov. Hyde signed the parole order about 10 days ago and it was filed with the Secretary of State on July 16 last.

The release order, which goes to the prison and is delivered to the prisoner, is a mere formality after the Governor signed the parole order. It had not been signed, as the Governor left for a week's trip in the Quaker after issuing the parole order and his secretary also was out of town. Meanwhile, the Governor read in the newspapers that Stoner twice had been sentenced to life imprisonment for two different murders. Late yesterday, following his return and while the release order was on his desk for signature, the Governor recalled the parole.

No Reference to Other Case. The parole recommendation submitted to the Governor by the State Board on which the Governor acted contained no reference to Stoner's previous 99-year sentence for a murder in Ralls County, but an indefinite reference to a previous conviction for murder was included in a letter and a preliminary record form in the large file of correspondence accompanying the board's recommendation. No reference was made in this file to the previous pardon by Gov. Dockery.

Gov. Hyde said he had been guided by the board's recommendation and had not closely examined the accompanying file of correspondence concerning Stoner's case. The fact concerning Stoner's previous sentence and pardon were learned by the Post-Dispatch correspondent through examination of the old records of the penitentiary after it was stated at the Parole Board Office that there was no record there of the previous pardon. The Parole Office was not in existence during Dockery's administration.

As related in the Post-Dispatch on July 18, Stoner served 10 years and five months in the penitentiary for a killing in Monroe County and had served 12 years and one month of his second sentence for a killing in Andrew County up to the time Gov. Hyde signed the parole order which would have freed him a second time. Had the latter order not been rescinded Stoner would have achieved the unique record of his debt to the State on two life terms with 22 years and six months of imprisonment.

Gov. Hyde said he did not know who was active in obtaining the parole recommendation for Stoner. Former Circuit Judge W. K. Amick, of St. Joseph, who presided at the second trial of Stoner, the Parole Board stated Amick had been virtually the only person active on behalf of Stoner and that recommendations for clemency had been made by several of the jurors. Virtually all of the letters in the board's file on Stoner were from Amick, now a lawyer in St. Joseph, who asserted he was acting without a fee. The order signed by Hyde and now rescinded directed that Stoner be paroled to Amick.

The prosecution plans to examine 10 witnesses. The defense expects to submit testimony of alienists regarding the mental responsibility of the youths. State's Attorney Crowe says he intends to present every bit of evidence collected by the State just as if a jury was hearing the case. The State plans to present expert testimony on the condition of the Franks boys' body when found after the kidnapping. There will be no alienist testimony in behalf of the State immediately.

The parents of the two boys, attorneys for the defense say, do not wish them to have their freedom. Neither, it is said, do they desire that their incarceration be in an asylum, as might have resulted had the insanity theory been pursued. Consequently the corps of alienists who made minute examinations and prepared voluminous reports, will make only brief statements on the stand in the effort to gain leniency.

Prosecutor Confident They'll Hang. Dra. James Whitney Hall and William J. Hickson of Chicago, Dr. William A. White, Washington; Dr. Karl Bowman, Boston, and Dr. Ralph Hamill are among the mental experts who probably will take the stand for the defense.

"I am confident that both will be sentenced to hang," Crowe retorted today. "It is the only just punishment for their crime."

"The State is going to prove not only that they are guilty, but that they are absolutely sane and should be hanged."

"Alienists can be called by the defense," Crowe said, "to show that the mental condition of the slayers constitutes a mitigating circumstance. But if there is an attempt to prove them insane and irresponsible, the matter will have to go to a jury."

The confession of the two youths will be submitted to the court, Crowe said.

In their statements to the court yesterday, defense attorneys acknowledged the correctness of the acts "substantially as published in the newspapers." By this they admitted formally that their clients on May 21 enticed Robert Franks into a rented automobile, pushed him with a blow from a tape-wound chisel and strangled him to death. They thus admitted, too, that the body was conveyed to a lonely spot across the Indiana line and there thrust, nude, into a small culvert under a railroad track. They formally acknowledged that the two young men destroyed the clothing of their victim, posted a letter demanding $10,000 ransom from the boy's father, and tossed into a park lagoon the typewriter on which the missive was written.

Return to Cells Laughing. The prospect of a death sentence, even after they had been warned of its possibility by Judge Caverly, did not noticeably move Loeb and Leopold. They went back to their cells in the County Jail, laughing and talking eagerly and speculating about the size of the headlines their sudden change of front would inspire. They scorned a suggestion that they had been nervous at the hearing, but admitted they were glad "the first day was over."

"Was Attorney Darrow's move to plead guilty a surprise to you?" they were asked.

"We're not allowed to say," said Leopold quickly. "Ask us about anything else but ourselves."

They did more questioning than the reporters. They were curious about the arrangements of the courtroom and asked how large a crowd waited outside the building. Any information that fed their ego they listened to eagerly.

"I'll bet we're all over the front pages," commented Loeb.

"There certainly was a commotion when Mr. Darrow moved to plead guilty," he added.

Loeb Cautioned by Leopold. "Better not talk any more about that," cautioned the conservative Leopold. "Let's talk about something else."

But Loeb persisted. "What is it the Judge says when he is all over?" he asked. "The court finds you—"

"Shut up," ordered Leopold.

And both of them, perhaps recalling that the time when it would be "all over" and the Judge would pronounce sentence was not far away, did so.

"Do you think the Judge will let us off with life?" Loeb questioned.

to distinguish, was so mentally diseased that he was unable to exercise a choice. It is under this latter phrase that the testimony of the defense is expected to come, and, obviously, it admits of some delicate work by the alienists.

Although Attorney Darrow and Bachrach have maintained a canopy of silence about their evidence, it is stated on good authority that their alienists have rendered an opinion that the boys were mentally irresponsible at the time the crime was committed. Evidence to that effect would consist, Darrow explained, of testimony touching their heredity, the testimony of persons who have known them for a long time, and the testimony of alienists, based on both physical and mental examinations.

Testimony in rebuttal, that is, for the purpose of showing them sane, would be on the same lines, but of the opposite character. Their youth also would be urged by the defense, Darrow said.

It is reliably stated that relatives of the defendants are convinced that the youths are not responsible, and while little credit is given to stories that Loeb once tried to poison his father and kidnap his brother, there are genuine indications that the families would fear to have them at liberty.

Father of Slain Boy to Be First Witness. By the Associated Press.

Dr. Jacob Franks, father of the 13-year-old victim of Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, will be the first witness for the State when the presentation of evidence begins tomorrow before Chief Justice Caverly in the judicial hearing to fix the punishment of the slayers.

State's Attorney Crowe will make a brief opening statement, setting forth the aims of the prosecution and suggesting the death penalty.

Franks will take the stand after the opening statement. After the statement of the father, the State plans to present expert testimony from several noted alienists to demonstrate the mental responsibility of the defendants. The entire proceeding, it was stated today, should require about three weeks.

Only evidence tending to mitigate their punishment can be submitted without a jury at the hearing.

The prosecution plans to examine 10 witnesses. The defense expects to submit testimony of alienists regarding the mental responsibility of the youths.

State's Attorney Crowe says he intends to present every bit of evidence collected by the State just as if a jury was hearing the case.

The State plans to present expert testimony on the condition of the Franks boys' body when found after the kidnapping. There will be no alienist testimony in behalf of the State immediately.

The parents of the two boys, attorneys for the defense say, do not wish them to have their freedom. Neither, it is said, do they desire that their incarceration be in an asylum, as might have resulted had the insanity theory been pursued. Consequently the corps of alienists who made minute examinations and prepared voluminous reports, will make only brief statements on the stand in the effort to gain leniency.

URGES INSPECTION OF SLAUGHTERHOUSES

Cunliff Recommends Municipal Service for Places Where Cattle Are Killed.

Establishment of a municipal inspection service for slaughterhouses in St. Louis is recommended in Director of Public Welfare Cunliff's report for the fiscal year ending last April, which was submitted to the Board of Public Service today. The report states there are 54 slaughterhouses here which are not inspected by the city, State or Federal Government.

Need for more adequate inspection of tenement is also pointed out in the report, which declares the city's increase in population, due to arrivals from the South, has resulted in a serious housing problem. Though not mentioned by name, the reference is to the influx of negroes.

The city jail is housing juveniles, contrary to law, because the House of Detention has become inadequate, the report continues. The City Sanitarium, now being converted from an insane asylum into a hospital for mental diseases, is also overcrowded, having 3000 patients in a building designed for 1750.

The Director recommends that "nationalism and petty differences" be set aside and a site be selected at once for a new city hospital for negroes, for which $1,125,000 was provided in the bond issue. Some negroes had indicated a desire to locate the new building at Grand boulevard and Laclede avenue, where the ball park now is, but city officials have held a site in a negro section in central northwest St. Louis would be more suitable.

Attention is directed to the establishment during the past year of the psychiatric clinic and the radiology section at city hospital. The clinic handled 555 cases in which it advised judges, guardians and parents and where its recommendations were heeded in 99 per cent of all cases.

While the elder Loeb went, his nephew placed a comforting arm about his shoulder and held a hat before his face when a photographer attempted to register the incident. The father of Leopold, however, sat in quiet dignity as his son entered a plea of guilty. Members of both families refused to comment on the proceedings.

Father of Franks Boy Bitter. Jacob Franks, father of the slain boy, expressed the hope that the plea of guilty did not mean the slayers would escape actual criminal prosecution. He did not attend the hearing, but later visited the State's Attorney's office after he heard first reports of the action of the defense.

"It means something perhaps, when they admit their guilt," he said. "Now, if ever there was a case on earth demanding the death penalty it is this one."

"I have been of the opinion from the start that these boys should be put to death."

He declared "this talk of insanity is all nonsense."

Extra guards have been stationed at the cells of the boys and a careful inspection is to be made of all their food to prevent poisoning attempts, Sheriff Hoffman has announced.

Boy Hurt by Auto. Clair Caulfield, 11-year-old son of Lambert Caulfield, 2300 Dickson street, suffered slight cuts and bruises when struck by an automobile driven by Courtney K. Perrin, 3842 De Torny street, at Elliot avenue and Thomas streets, at 2:15 p. m. yesterday.

MANY VISIT COOLIDGE GRAVE. Military Guard to Be Kept There All Summer.

By the Associated Press. PLYMOUTH, Vt., July 22.—The military guard which has been doing duty at the grave of Calvin Coolidge Jr., son of the President, will be continued through the summer, it was learned today. Many hundreds of persons visit the grave daily and souvenir hunters are much in evidence. They have chipped pieces from the old stone wall about the cemetery.

At the home of John C. Coolidge, the President's father, Mr. May Johnson, a friend of the family, receives visitors during the absence of Mr. Coolidge in Washington. It is estimated that at least 8000 persons were in town Sunday and many of them besides visiting the cemetery, called at the Coolidge home.

Judge Who Will Decide Fate Of Franks Boy's Slayers Has Sentenced 5 Persons to Hang

John R. Caverly Says He Would Have Preferred to Have Jury Pass on Case, but He Won't Shirk Duty.

By PAUL V. ANDERSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 22.—The question of whether Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb shall be hanged for the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks was placed squarely and exclusively upon the shoulders of Chief Justice John R. Caverly of the Criminal Court by the action of the youths in pleading guilty yesterday.

In less than three years Judge Caverly has sentenced five men to hang, and three of them have been executed. The other two received a new trial on appeal, and later were given life imprisonment.

From this it may be deduced that the Judge is capable of inflicting the death penalty when he believes it warranted. The deduction is generally corroborated by the opinions of those familiar with his temperament and his career on the bench.

He has been prosecuting attorney for nearly 30 years, and has been on the bench for the last 19 years. He is 63 years old.

Worked in Rolling Mills. In character, personality and history, Judge Caverly is typical of a familiar and wholesome side of American public life. He was born in London of an Irish father and an English mother, and brought to this country by his parents when he was 6 years old. They settled in Chicago, and he attended both public and parochial schools.

His father was a machinist, employed in the rolling mills of North Chicago, and the son worked in the mills as a water boy during vacations. He worked his way through Wake Forest College, from which he was graduated with a degree of LL. B.

He was appointed Assistant City Attorney in 1897, serving until 1902, when he was made Police Magistrate in the famous Harrison Street Police Court, in the heart of Chicago's tenderloin district.

In his five years on that bench, listening to as many as 200 cases a day, he acquired much of the knowledge of human nature for which he is celebrated locally.

Sentenced Church to Hang. Mayor Dunne appointed him City Attorney in 1907, and Mayor Busse, a Republican, reappointed him, although Caverly is a Democrat. He was elected Municipal Court Judge in 1910, re-elected in 1914, elected Circuit Judge in 1921, and elected Chief Justice in 1923. His trial of capital cases began with his elevation to the Circuit bench. Because of his great experience in criminal cases, he has remained in the criminal division three years, although the customary assignment is one year. This, however, will be his last criminal case, as he goes to the civil division immediately afterward.

Perhaps the most noted case previously tried before him was that of Harvey Church, the youth who killed Henry Dougherty and Carl Ausmus to get an automobile. Church was convicted, and Judge Caverly sentenced him to hang. The verdict was affirmed by the Supreme Court. Church was then given a sanity hearing, adjudged sane, and was hanged about two years ago.

Lawrence Heffernan and William Cranes were tried before him for the murder of William Lanus, and found guilty, and sentenced. Judge Caverly to be hanged. The Supreme Court ordered a new trial in their case and they ultimately received life sentences.

Henry Wilson and Lucius Dalton, negroes, were tried before Judge Caverly for the murder of Policeman Vincent Skiba. They were found guilty, sentenced to death by Judge Caverly, and were executed six months ago.

Judge Caverly is a robust man, slightly under medium height, his square face exhibits a kindly but determined disposition, and keen eyes glint humorously under his bushy eyebrows. A curl habitually strays down over his broad forehead. His unquestioned dignity has a good-natured aspect, and he is personally popular.

Will Not Shirk His Duty. Talking to the correspondent yesterday after adjournment of the short and dramatic session at which the lives of the two youths were placed in his hands, he said: "I suppose it is about the worst thing that could have happened to me. I wish they hadn't submitted this case to me. I would rather have had it go to a jury. But I shan't shirk my duty. I will do exactly what I think is right, regardless of what others may think."

"It is an extraordinary case and one that presents many new problems. Here are two boys, intelligent, likable, members of excellent families, with everything to live for, and by their own plea, they go out and commit kidnapping and murder. The dilemma will endeavor to show that they were not fully responsible. The State will introduce rebuttal to show that they were perfectly sane."

"My own mind is clearly open on the question. I have not permitted anybody to discuss the case with me. Both sides will be permitted every opportunity to present competent evidence. Both sides will be allowed all the time they want for argument. When I have heard the evidence and the arguments I will make my decision."

Judge Caverly is married, but has no children.

ROADHOUSE DESTROYED FOLLOWING EXPLOSION

Proprietor Finds Initials K. K. Chalked on Doors of Place After Blast.

John de Jarnatt, proprietor of the Motor Inn Club, a roadhouse at 2300 State street, East St. Louis, was awakened at the place at 3:15 a. m. today by a slight explosion, which caused the lower floor to break into flames. He saw, from an upper window two men getting in a Ford coupe in which a third man waited, and drive toward Belleville. He emptied the shells of a pistol at them. Saving himself from the fire by sliding down a tree, he discovered the initials K. K. chalked on the doors.

The fire caused damage estimated by the proprietor at $4500. George McCormick, a waiter, was burned slightly in saving the cash register, from which, however, De Jarnatt had taken $1000 money.

Some time ago paid investigators of the Ku Klux Klan asserted that they bought liquor at De Jarnatt's place and he is charged with violating the Volstead act as a result. Ten days ago Federal agents reported finding whisky and gin in a raid there.

U. S. GLOBE FLYERS NEARLY READY TO RESUME JOURNEY. Continued from Page One.

Transatlantic Flight Orders Cabled to Lieut. Smith. By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Major General Patrick, chief of the Army Air Service, has cabled instructions to Lieut. Lowell M. Smith, commanding officer of the world flight, to start the transatlantic hop as soon as supplies are distributed along the path of the flight and saved vessels have taken their positions on the water stretches between stopping points.

A statement issued today by the Army Air Service said: "The flight is not expected to leave England before Aug. 1." It was also announced that the trip from Brough will be by way of Kirkwall, Iceland, Greenland and Labrador, with the omission of the stop previously scheduled for the Faroe Islands. The flier will proceed directly from Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, to Iceland, a distance of 560 miles.

"According to present plans" the air service said, "the flight should leave Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, for Horns Point, Iceland, on Aug. 15. They should arrive at Labrador about Aug. 10 and Boston about Aug. 18. This schedule, of course, is subject to delay, but on the other hand may be bettered."

ROAD SOON TO BE OPEN TO FRANKLIN CO. LINE

Manchester Paving Job in St. Louis County Nears Completion—Progress in St. Charles District.

Manchester road, part of the concrete state highway to run ultimately from St. Louis to Joplin, which has been constructed through St. Louis County by the state and closed in part for about three years, will be open, paved, from a point half a mile west of North and South road to the Franklin County line, in 10 days. This is a distance of about 18 miles. All but the western part has been in use for some time.

The last paving was laid 11 days ago and the process of curing it is under way. Part of the stretch of about two and a half miles, between the end of concrete paving of Manchester avenue, Maplewood, and the start of the concrete highway, is still closed for improvement.

The only state highway work now remaining to be done in St. Louis County is a mile or so of concrete bridge over the Meramec River there. The concrete road to Kansas City, of which St. Charles road is a part, soon will be open entirely through St. Charles County to the Warren County line.

IRISH CROWD HAILS DE VALERA AS CHIEF

He Is Greeted on First Public Appearance by Enthusiastic Throng—Defends Actions
in Speech.

By the Associated Press.
DUBLIN, July 22.—Eamon de Valera made his first public appearance since his release from prison at Mansion House last night where he delivered a speech and was enthusiastically acclaimed as President of the Irish republic.

Three hours before the appointed time for the speech crowds from many parts of the country formed a line outside the building, which was unable to hold more than a small fraction of those who desired to enter.

De Valera said that the Republicans no longer formed the rear guard, but were the main body of the nation. Was there a man now in Ireland, he asked, who dared stand up and say he would give allegiance to any foreign Power. He claimed to be a moderate man. He never took up arms except in defense of the Irish Constitution. The opponents of the Republicans swept away that Constitution and forced the issue to a military decision.

De Valera admitted a military defeat, but he said he never would have signed his "cease firing" order unless the Republicans had won a political victory. The present time, De Valera continued, was a time for action, not words. What was most needed was unity in defense of Irish liberty. The fight the Republicans had made up to 1921 had advanced the cause of Ireland by from 30 to 40 years, and he was convinced that in the events of the last two or three years more progress had been made than by 30 or 40 years of ordinary agitation. The Irish people had been brought nearer the final goal, because Ireland had not committed any acts that had lost her birthright.

David George Lloyd, said De Valera, had lacked the courage to go the distance necessary to obtain a neighboring arrangement. He sought for and made a politician's, instead of a statesman's settlement.

The only way any country, whether Ireland, Egypt or India, could hope to be free was by basing its efforts on independence. He had seen something about a five million or ten million pound loan to Ireland, but if Ireland had built on a solid rock of independence she could get a 50 million-pound loan in a week.

The Republicans, said De Valera, would do their utmost to create friendly relations with their neighbors, whether they were English, French, American, Scottish or Welsh.

HEARING IN WASHINGTON IN SUIT AGAINST MILLMEN
Attorney-General Barrett to Take Testimony of Experts on Effect of Losing Bureau.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, July 22.—Taking of testimony in the anti-trust proceedings against the St. Louis Millmen's Association will be resumed tomorrow in Washington, and another hearing will be held in New York next Monday. Testimony at these hearings will be in the nature of rebuttal by the State, and probably will wind up the preliminary hearings in the case, which is scheduled to be submitted to the Supreme Court during the October term.

Attorney-General Barrett has stated the purpose of the hearings in Washington and New York is to obtain the testimony of nationally known economic experts as to the effect on competition of so-called "open price plan" under which the millmen were alleged to have been operating. It is understood that one of the witnesses will be Dr. Francis Walker, chief economist of the Federal Trade Commission.

In recent hearings in St. Louis the millmen produced St. Louis architects and contractors, who testified the listing bureau maintained by the millmen's association and certain other practices of the association were not harmful and in reality produced a saving which resulted in increased competition. The listing bureau calculated the amount of mill work required in a given set of plans and specifications and furnished the figures to members of the association. These figures were used by the millmen as the basis of their calculations and bids. It was said, instead of each firm making its own separate calculations, Barrett has charged these practices operate in restraint of competition and tend to fix uniform prices. He determined to get the testimony of national experts on the effect of the plan on competition. Barrett and Assistant Attorney-General Davis departed this afternoon for Washington. They will be joined there by Commissioner Shackelford and Charles A. Houts and other attorneys for the millmen.

Repayment of an Industrial Loan Is Easy!

ON loans made in the ordinary way, the borrower often finds he is just as hard up when the money is due as when it was obtained. This difficulty is prevented by our plan of repayment, whereby the loan is divided into 50 equal parts and is paid back a little each week.

The Way to Pay:

On a Loan of $ 50—Payment	$ 1.00 each week
On a Loan of 100—Payment	2.00 each week
On a Loan of 200—Payment	4.00 each week
On a Loan of 500—Payment	10.00 each week
On a Loan of 1000—Payment	20.00 each week
On a Loan of 5000—Payment	100.00 each week

Loans may be repaid monthly if desired.

These regular weekly payments not only pay back your loan but also teach you to save. The habit of putting aside a definite sum each week, once formed, is easily kept up after your loan is cleared away.

Come in and talk it over with us. We are here to help you and our officers are never too busy to give you expert advice and counsel. Your character and earning power form the basis of our credit.

Property Owners Apply for Writ Prohibiting Issuance of Permit for Building Station.
to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, July 22.—
Application for a writ of prohibition against Circuit Judge Grimm and the St. Louis Board of Public Service, to restrain the issuance of a permit for construction of a gasoline filling station at the southwest corner of Newstead and McPherson avenues in St. Louis, was filed in Supreme Court yesterday by attorneys for property owners near the proposed site. The application was taken under advisement.

As is known, Director of Public Safety McKelvey issued the permit for the gasoline filling station.
This action was revoked by the Board of Public Service after a hearing, and the matter taken into Circuit Court in a test case. Judge Grimm ruled the board had no discretion and would have to issue

such a permit when proper application was made for it. The contract for the filling station had been let by the Lubrite Refining Co. to the McKelvey Construction
Co., headed by Director McKelvey's son.
The writ of prohibition is sought on the ground that motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment
still are pending before Judge

Grimm. Included among the petitioners for the writ are Federal Judge Faria, Melville L. Wilkinson, James E. Tausig, president of the Wabash Railroad Co.; former Governor David R. Francis, Richard McCulloch, Richard Moore, a member of the Board of Police

Commissioners; Monsignor John J.
Tannath; A. W. Shapleigh, Eugena Benedict, Lydia D. Crump and

This Makes the Curl Stay in Your Hair

The silmerine method is usually popular just now, according to the druggists. This is largely due to the weather and because women are now spending so much time out of doors. This simple method not only produces the loveliest, natural looking curls and waves, but keeps the hair in curl no matter how hot or how moist the day, nor how hard the wind blows. All one need do is to wet a clean tooth brush with liquid silmerine, draw this through the hair before doing it up, and the hair will dry in just the sweetest waves and crinkles. This also keeps the hair beautifully soft, silky, lustrous. Liquid silmerine costs about 20 cents an ounce.

U. S. TO PROSECUTE BECK AND BARRETT

Federal Warrants Against Officials of Defunct Building Corporation Issued.

Christian W. Beck, president, and Edward J. Barrett, vice president and general manager of the defunct Federal Home Building Corporation, will be prosecuted in the Federal courts, as well as in the State courts, as a result of the company's methods of doing business. The issuance of Federal warrants, charging them with using the mails to defraud, became known yesterday afternoon, when Beck appeared at the United States Marshal's office and gave $5000 bond.

Shortly before, Beck gave $5000 bond in the Court of Criminal Correction, where he pleaded not guilty to the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, pending against him in that court. His hearing was set for Aug. 4. Beck has been sought by detectives since the issuance of the false-pretense information by the Circuit Attorney, June 27. Barrett gave bond on that charge at that time.

Wesling Also Named.
A Federal warrant, on the same charge as that made against Beck and Barrett, has been issued against John Wesling, sales manager for the corporation.

A report of postoffice inspectors on the company's affairs, made public yesterday, covers chiefly the facts previously revealed by an audit. It states that the capital stock, $25,000, was not paid in by the directors, who were Beck, Gus O. Nations, J. H. Beck, David Beckett and E. H. Paulus. Nations, who was State chief in the prohibition enforcement service, withdrew from the board of directors in June, 1923.

The company, between February and August, 1923, obtained $282,521 from contract holders, many of whom paid 20 to 25 per cent of the cost of homes which were planned, and few of whom got any substantial return. The assets in the nature of cash, when taken in charge by receivers last August, were $1.92 on hand, $127.12 in bank, and a $50 Liberty bond.

Says He Paid Off $40,000.
Beck, on appearing yesterday, said he had been in California. He said he had paid more than $40,000 to contract holders who accepted his personal notes and expected to pay them in full.

Two of the signers of Beck's bond in the Court of Criminal Correction were George D. Mahon and Ben Steyermark, members of the Contract Holders' Committee. The committee split on the question of instituting criminal prosecution. Mahon and Steyermark had opposed such action.

REAL ESTATE MAN FREED ON DISORDERLY CONDUCT CHARGE

Theodore Feydt Denies Improper Conduct in Discharge of Police Charge for Lack of Evidence. Theodore Feydt, a real estate dealer residing at 2816 Michigan avenue, was discharged yesterday because of insufficient evidence, following his arraignment before Provisional Judge Maher in Police Court on a charge of disorderly conduct in Tower Grove Park.

William Allmeroth, the complaining witness, testified that when he was walking through the park on the afternoon of July 9 he observed a man and woman misbehaving and took the number of their automobile license. This he turned over to the police, who traced it to Feydt. On the stand Feydt admitted that he was in Tower Grove Park on the afternoon in question, but denied that his deportment was improper. Two attorneys, John Neu and Rosier G. Meigs, appeared as character witnesses for Feydt.

STATEN ISLAND POLICE RETURN SUSPECT TO NEWARK

Authorities Convinced Man Held Is Not the One They Sought for Strangling of Boy.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 22.—Milton Ware, a waiter, who was alleged to have confessed strangling 5-year-old Francis McDonnell of Staten Island, was sent back to Newark, N. J., today, after the police had been convinced that he was not the man they sought.

Mrs. Albert McDonnell, mother of the slain boy, at first identified a rubber ball found in Ware's pocket as that of her son. She afterward said it was like one given her son by his grandmother on his birthday. Ware repudiated an alleged confession made in Newark.

By the Associated Press.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 22.—George E. CONGRESSMEN IN DEBATE ON ISSUES

Tincher and Barkley Agree
They Want No Third Ticket
to Be Elected.

By the Associated Press.

KIMBALL, Neb., July 22.—Western Nebraskaans were given their first public discussion of the political issues of the 1934 campaign here last night when Representatives J. N. Tincher (Rep.) of Kansas and Representative A. W. Barkley (Dem.) of Kentucky, met in debate.

The Kansan asked his opponent if he would claim the Federal reserve act was fair as originally passed, denying agricultural interests a voice in its control. The Kentuckian replied that if there was anything wrong with Democratic laws the Republicans had had six years in which to correct them.

W. J. Bryan and Davis. Representative Tincher opened with a series of questions concerning deflation and the events of the recent Democratic national convention in New York. Tincher asked his opponent if he believed that W. J. Bryan spoke truthfully at New York when he said that John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, was "unfit for presidential office because of his connection as attorney for J. P. Morgan & Co., the Standard Oil Co. and the Rubber Trust."

Barkley replied by denying that Bryan had said Davis was "unfit" to be President. "If he had said that," Barkley declared, "he would have been wrong. What he said was that the fact that he represented large clients as a lawyer might raise a presumption as to his availability, but that this presumption could be overcome by Mr. Davis himself in the development and expression of his political views."

Tincher said Bryan argued that Davis was a director of at least three or four of these corporations and would, if elected, be in sympathy with them and against the interests of the masses of the West. If Bryan spoke truthfully at that time, he said, "what has happened since to change the situation is amusing."

Democratic Tariff. In developing his argument on the condition of the farmers, Tincher inquired of Barkley if he could name any calendar year in which agriculture has had prosperity under a Democratic tariff. This brought the response that there was not a single nation-wide farm product that was not worth more in 1919 than in 1923.

Both declared they were agreed that the country should be run by one of the major parties.

"Neither of us could stand on a third party, as both of us believe in the right of the individual to own property," Representative Tincher declared, while his opponent asserted that he could agree on this, adding that "this fight is between the Democratic and Republican parties" and that either John W. Davis or Calvin Coolidge will be the next President of the United States, "and I want one of them to be."

BANKRUPTCIES IN GERMANY SHOW MARKED INCREASE

Constant Decline in Labor Market Is Reported—$3,000 Now Jobless in Berlin.

By the Associated Press. BERLIN, July 22.—The Ministry of Commerce reports a marked increase in the number of bankruptcies in Germany, especially of unlimited partnerships. During the month of June the number of such failures was three times that of the May figures.

A constant decline in the labor market here is reported by the Berlin labor office. Six thousand more unemployed were entered on the list for the week ended July 19 than for the week previous. The total number of unemployed, now registered in Berlin, is nearly 92,000.

A dispatch from Dresden says the textile factories of Western Saxony are suffering a grave decline in business. Most of the large weaving and spinning mills are unable to keep up even the 24-hour week schedule recently adopted. Both scarcity of credit and lack of orders are given as the reasons for these conditions.

Hurt in Fall From Truck. Thomas Syron, 13 years old, of 4404 Lafayette avenue, suffered a skull fracture yesterday when he fell off the rear of an automobile truck at Grand boulevard and La Salle street, his head striking the pavement.

FENTON MERCHANT CHARGED WITH PERJURY

Fred Well Arrested After Testifying in Slot Machine Case at Clayton.

Fred Well, a storekeeper at Fenton, is charged with perjury as a result of his testimony in Circuit Judge Wurdeman's court at Clayton yesterday in the case of Edward Damm of 517 Fillmore street, slot machine operator, who was freed of a charge of setting up a gambling device by a directed verdict of acquittal.

The perjury information was issued by the Prosecuting Attorney shortly after the verdict was returned. Well was arrested and released on $3500 bond. The prosecutor declared that Well had testified before the grand jury that Damm and he agreed to have a slot machine set up in his store and Damm promised him a "dividend" on the business.

In court yesterday, Well testified he was not present when the slot machine was installed in his store 18 months ago, but that Damm had appeared there sometimes and repaired it. He talked about another man, whose name he did not know, who seemed to have charge of the machine. Earl Rudder of Fenton testified he had seen Damm take money from the machine and Deputy Sheriff James Slewin told of warning Well to get rid of the device.

Judge Wurdeman, directing the jury to acquit Damm, said the evidence seemed to indicate the wrong defendant had been chosen. Recently a similar charge against Damm was continued indefinitely in Circuit Judge McElhinney's court upon the prosecutor's declaration that the chief state's witness had "gone to China." Damm was one of those who made affidavits shown to Judge Wurdeman a number of weeks ago in which it was alleged that certain county officials were paid for "protection" of slot machines and liquor sales. Damm declared he paid $2250 for such "protection."

MASKED WOMAN ENTERS YARD, HURLS ACID IN WOMAN'S FACE

Approaches Porch Where Victim and Her Mother Are Sitting, Unnoticed.

By the Associated Press.
LEBANON JUNCTION, Ky., July 22.—A masked woman, appearing in the yard at sundown, walked to the porch where Mrs. Lillian Woolsey and her mother sat last evening, hurled acid in Mrs. Woolsey's face and fled, according to her story to Police Marshal Leslie today. Mrs. Woolsey may lose the sight of one eye, Mirrhall Leslie said after a brief investigation.

The woman who threw the acid walked into the yard about 8 o'clock and had neared the porch before either Mrs. Woolsey or her mother noticed the mask she wore, they told Leslie.

"Take this," she called and hurled the acid. Mrs. Woolsey says she shut her eyes as the liquid found its mark and then rushed into the house to smear lard over her burns.

Mrs. Emma Ellison, 75, her mother, was burned on one arm. Mrs. Woolsey's burns were about the face, neck, back, chest and thighs.

Asked if she had any enemies, Mrs. Woolsey replied, "Only one."

DRIVENLESS AUTO INJURES THREE PERSONS ON SIDEWALK

Negro Girl, 12, Hurt Seriously When Struck by Machine Coming Downhill.

Three negroes were injured, a 12-year-old girl seriously, when an automobile, parked east of Third street on Washington avenue, rolled a half block down hill onto the sidewalk where the three were walking at 9:30 o'clock last night. Edna Kims, 12, of 3124 Washington avenue, was taken to city hospital No. 2, suffering from concussion of the brain. Her companions, Walter Jones, 23, of 1026 Market street, and Fred Quiles, 24, of 1136 Lucas avenue, suffered minor injuries.

The automobile was the property of Thomas W. Posey, 2715 Olive street, a pilot on a Mississippi River steamer. He parked the machine with the wheels turned in toward the curb and declared it could not have started unless struck by another machine or tampered with.

CORONER TO INQUIRE INTO SUDDEN DEATH OF WOMAN

The sudden death of Mrs. Nancy V. Morman, 19 years old, at 4808 Page boulevard, as she was being taken in a private ambulance from her home to Barnes Hospital last night, has caused the coroner to order an investigation.

A physician, called to the home at 2 a. m. yesterday, found Mrs. Morman complaining of abdominal pains. He prescribed for her, but on a second visit at noon advised her husband, Adolph Morman, to transfer her to a hospital. This was delayed, however, because Mrs. Morman wanted to wait until her mother arrived from Wentzville, Mo., but when convulsions appeared at 7 p. m. an ambulance was hurriedly called. She died just before reaching the hospital. The physician refused to sign a death certificate, stating he was not positive as to the diagnosis of Mrs. Morman's ailment.

RHINOCEROS ORDERED FOR ST. LOUIS ZOO

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, July 22.—George E. Dieckman, president of the St. Louis Zoological Society and vice president of the city zoo board, returned on the Leviathan last night with his wife and son after a two months' tour of Europe. He went abroad primarily to see what he could learn that would be of value to the St. Louis zoo, and to see if he could pick up any rare animals. The only animals he purchased were a few small ones, but he has ordered a rhinoceros, which Hagenbeck's men are now trying to catch for him in the clime where the rhino sports. Nor did he acquire any great information about zoos and zoo management. "In fact," he said, "there isn't a zoo in Europe that can compare with ours. Inside of Hagenbeck's, near Hamburg, Germany, the Hamburg zoo itself is small, ill-smelling, poorly supplied with animals, and those few animals poorly housed. "I was particularly disappointed with the London zoo in Regent Park. Somehow, I had expected a much better showing than our British cousins are making. Our zoo outranks those of Europe, and is about even up now with the Bronx zoo here in New York, but within three years we will have the greatest zoo in the world."

CHARLES A. WALL, RETIRED MINE OWNER, IS DEAD

Former Miller Who Moved Here Three Years Ago Succumbs From Pneumonia. Charles A. Wall, wealthy retired mine owner and miller, died at St. John's Hospital last night of pneumonia. He was 56 years old and at the time of his death had severed all his business connections except that of chairman of the board of directors of the Devo & Kuhn Coal & Coke Co. in the Central National Bank Building. Until three years ago, Wall lived at Murphysboro, Ill., where he operated a mill, but with his retirement he moved to St. Louis and recently made his home at the Forest Park Hotel with his wife, Mrs. Mary Kate Wall. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John J. Ward of 4372 West Pine boulevard. Wall had been connected with many mining and milling ventures in Illinois and had owned mines at Duquoin, Sparta and Murphysboro. He was at one time an officer of the St. Louis and O'Fallon Coal Co. His father, former Judge George W. Wall of Duquoin, died about two years ago, was Judge of the Illinois Court of Appeals many years ago.

BEER BY THE GLASS WINS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA BY 53

Count of "Absentee" Ballots Changes Dry Majority of 189 Into Wet One in Vancouver. By the Associated Press. VANCOUVER, B. C., July 22.—Sale of beer by the glass here is favored by a majority of 53, it was announced yesterday after tabulation of the absentee vote of a plebiscite held last week. The count of the absentees vote changed a dry majority of 189 on the home vote to a wet majority of 53. An official count of ballots has been demanded by the temperance party. Whether any city or municipality in the province will be allowed to open beer bars remains in doubt while officials of the I.P.O.V. Secretary's department waited to complete the tally of beer plebiscite results throughout British Columbia. With returns from a number of small towns still outstanding, the provincial majority against sales of beer by the glass stands approximately at 1000.

CONVICTED BY HER OWN SEX Woman Charged With Bootlegging Had Demanded Jury of Women.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. HARRISBURG, Ill., July 22.—When Chief of Police Ike Dial of Ledford, small mining town three miles south of here, arrested Mrs. Mary Grietz charging her with bootlegging, she demanded a jury of women. The jury summoned included five women—Mrs. Rebecca Chancellor, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Tom Clark, Mrs. Maggie Hudgens and Mrs. Frena Besen. After the trial it was out 16 minutes and returned a verdict of guilty. Mrs. Grietz was fined $100 and costs, the limit for village fines.

J. P. MORGAN GOING TO EUROPE

Banker to Sail Saturday for Annual Vacation. By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, July 22.—J. P. Morgan will sail Saturday on the Minnewaska for his annual vacation in Europe. His holiday, as usual, will include the autumn hunting season in Scotland. While the banker denied that his trip had any connection with the far-reaching German loan, the financial district considered that the presence of Morgan in Europe would lead European experts to seek his advice regarding the situation. Thomas W. Lamont, another member of the Morgan firm, is now in Europe.

DAVIS TO STRESS

Honesty in Government,

ADDRESS TO TAKE
ABOUT 40 MINUTES

Democratic Nominee

DARK HARBOR, ILL., July 22.—A president in brevity is the goal of John W. Davis in the preparation of his address accepting the Democratic presidential nomination.

His idea is to cover the field generally with emphasis on the more important issues of the day, such as honesty in government, foreign affairs, taxes and tariff and farm relief. The occasion requires the discussion of so many different subjects that Mr. Davis cannot make his speech as brief as he would like.

While he has not determined upon even the framework of his speech, his present intention is to confine the whole discussion to approximately 4000 words, which would require about 40 minutes in delivery.

The official address to be made by Senator Walsh of Montana, permanent chairman of the New York Democratic convention, probably will be equally brief, so that the convention at Charleston, W. Va., on the night of Aug. 11 should be much shorter than have been similar affairs in recent years.

In the preparation of his address, the nominee is studying the several party platforms and the keynote addresses delivered at the Cleveland and New York conventions.

Having devoted two days to complete rest, Davis had his first recreation yesterday, a round of golf on the Tarratine course, which winds along a cove and through woods where once the Tarratine Indians pitched their wigwags or stalked game. Frank L. Polk, his former law partner, was his adversary and they have arranged for daily matches.

The nominee declined an informal invitation to help Maine fishermen haul seines in Penobscot Bay. He said the job itself appealed to him, but that the hour of starting, 4 a. m., did not. It is possible, Davis probably will make a cruise around the islands that dot the bay.

For the present, at least, Davis has arranged to divide his days so that he will have the mornings for work on his acceptance address and his mail, with his afternoons free for self or other recreation. Mr. and Mrs. Davis had lunch yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. Polk at the summer home of the latter. Frank B. Noyes, publisher of the Washington Star and president of the Associated Press, and Mrs. Noyes were guests.

JOHN W. DAVIS

Lives in a House That Is
'Mortgaged to the Eaves'
—Went 'Broke' After 10 Years in Office.

The New York World prints the following article on John W. Davis by Edward G. Lowry, "Who Knew Him When—"

By Edward G. Lowry.

I CHOOSE to put a piece in the paper about John W. Davis. Everybody will be doing it, but I ask consideration and a hearing as a member of the I-Knew-Him-When Club.

It beats all what distorted images people get in their heads about public men. Bryan is a case in point. So is Mr. Coolidge. And so, conspicuously so, is John W. Davis.

By most people Mr. Bryan is regarded as an outworn and negligible personality in our national life, yet he continues to tincture and color the minds of as many people as any man in the United States—not nearly so many as he did eight, ten, twelve, twenty years ago, but still more than any other single man of his generation. He does not have his way in politics as he used to, but he is a factor. I went to see him one morning about 9 o'clock at his hotel while the Democratic convention was in progress. He had been staying the night at Yonkers and had not returned to town. About 25 people were waiting for him. One of them was an old man of 70 years or more. He told me:

"I have been waiting here since 7 o'clock. I just want to see Mr. Bryan again and shake his hand and say 'God bless you.' Perhaps it will be the last time I will ever see him."

That old gentleman is one of a great number, a diminishing number it is true, but still enough to count. Between elections and between political campaigns, Mr. Bryan, by way of a minor activity, is enabled to stand the evangelical churches of America on their heads by propounding his ideas and views on evolution and his beliefs as a fundamentalist.

The Paramount Issue.
Mr. Coolidge is an opposite case. A great body of people out in the country think of him as a strong, silent, masterful, dominating personality. He is just precisely nothing of the sort. The Coolidge legend is baseless. He is silent, but not morose, and without any capacity for leadership or initiative in an emergency. He is not dominating and he is not masterful. Everybody who knows him knows that this is true, yet the legend persists. It is in a fair way to be dispelled this summer as many minds on religion as on politics.

Now, John W. Davis must dispel the myth and illusions that have been created about him. The first one is that he is another Alton B. Parker. There never was a more gorgeous misconception. I did not know that it was entertained by anybody until I began to talk to the Western delegates during the convention. Some of them were full of the idea. "We don't want another Alton B. Parker shoved on us."

I am one of the survivors of the Parker campaign. I made the pilgrimage to Esopus more than once. I heard the great man speak from his side porch. If it was not such a hot morning, I could cast about in my mind to find proper words to describe Judge Parker in a dignified and roundabout way, but because I am tired and hot I shall accept the homely, racy speech of the Missouri delegate who said last week, "Old Parker was just a stuffed shirt." We will let it go at that without attempting to be polite. Judge Parker satisfied to the point of saturation any definition of a Tory and a reactionary.

Neither of these distinctions fits Mr. Davis. I have known Mr. Davis almost since he first came to Washington to live—first, as a Congressman, and later as Solicitor-General of the United States. The first clear recollection I have of him was one night after dinner at his own house when I stayed on after the others had left to finish a cigar. We began to talk about how much it cost to live, and how difficult it was to save any money. It has always been an engrossing topic with me, and a problem of the liveliest interest. It is with most people that I know.

Figuring on a Car.
It appeared as we talked that both my wife and Mrs. Davis had separately conceived the idea that a little electric car to run about town making calls in would be a useful addition to the grade. I could not make the grade. I thought Mr. Davis did, but it required a bit of figuring. The question was whether to buy or to hire. I remember that going home I made an explanation and an exposition of the family financial resources that would have won the praise of Alexander Hamilton or any really great finance minister.

By a curious chance the last talk that I had with Mr. Davis before his nomination was on the subject. I had gone to talk to him last March about politics and his own nomination, but he was not interested in the topic, and we drifted around again as we had before to the cost of living and the burden of taxation. It was just about the time when we were all making out our income tax returns.

Being a lawyer downtown is the first good job that Mr. Davis ever had in the sense of making enough money to be able to lay by some of it as savings. Being a lawyer in West Virginia in ordinary practice is not a moneymaking job. Being a Congressman in Washington at $7500 a year is a losing job, except for the few who manage to break even. An American Ambassador at London at $17,500 a year has to find from $15,000 to $20,000 a year out of his own pocket to keep the job going. I know this from personal observation. I was with Mr. Page in London during the war. When entertaining was not owing a cent to any one, but dead broke, I got into the law business again, and I am not at all anxious to get out of it.

When Davis Was 'Dead Broke'
Mr. Davis said in an interview a little while ago: "I was in Congress three years and Solicitor General for five years. I followed this with two years and a half as Ambassador to England. At the end of that time I was broke. I used up every cent of my capital while in Government service. But I never borrowed a cent from any one except bankers, and then I put up my own security as collateral. I wound up my Government service not owing a cent to any one, but dead broke. I got into the law business again, and I am not at all anxious to get out of it."

Davis was thoroughly happy practicing law in New York. When he went into the firm of Stetson, Jennings & Russell, he put behind him all thought of any further public service. He is 51 years old, and he felt it was high time to make some money against old age and the misfortune of illness. He would not be interested in the effort his friends were making to put him in the White House. He said all along: "That is a matter for the party to decide, and not for me. I cannot decline such an honor if tendered me, but it is not a thing to be fought and clamored and striven for." That attitude he did not abate for a single instant.

Being a gentleman in the old-fashioned sense of the word is a negligible virtue in these clamorous, assertive days. Being civil and courteous and considerate of the feelings and rights of others, being soft-spoken and not pushful, does not count for much, and yet somehow these qualities have brought Mr. Davis the nomination of his party against aggressive, shrieking, clamant contenders.

Doesn't Scream Convictions.
I venture to prophesy that being a candidate for President will not affect Mr. Davis' manners or methods; that his qualities will not desert him. He is as sincere, straightforward and straight-spoken a man as lives. He has not much passion or fire. He has convictions, but he does not scream them. He has clear beliefs and definite political principles. He said to me two months ago:

"The Democratic party has no place in our national life except as the party of liberalism," and formulated this Democratic creed: "We believe that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; that the best Government is that which gov-paign. In all probability, is the story that his house on Long Island was a gift from the Standard Oil Co. This false report was spread through West Virginia early in the spring and caused the Davis supporters there much annoyance and trouble. It has this basis: Mr. Davis bought the house at Locust Valley that had been occupied by A. C. Bedford, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. The records show that it is mortgaged to the eaves. It may become necessary for Mr. Davis to tell how much he paid down in cash and how much interest he pays on his mortgage notes.

Phil Campbell's Experience.
Ask Phil Campbell if you don't believe the voters are interested in all the details of the home and home life of a candidate for their suffrage. The Hon. Phil Campbell had become a fixture in Congress. He was in the House for years and years. He became an important figure. He rose to be chairman of the Education Committee. He exercised authority. He became, in a manner of speaking, a personage. He seemed assured of a long stay at Washington. He had made the Pittsburgh (Kan.) district, a political subdivision that counted in national affairs.

But at the last election the Campbellians descended upon the Hon. Phil and slew him. And for such a little thing. He had bought himself a little place over on the Virginia side of the Potomac, as so many people have done who have to be in Washington during the hot months. They retire to these country cottages so that the children may have grass and trees and a place to play and to be refreshed by what cool the evenings may bring. It does not seem a heinous offense even for an office holder, but the report spread about the Kansas district that Campbell had acquired an estate in Virginia and that he was going to resign his place in law. He still has his little place in Virginia. It's the only home he has.

Campbell is a Republican, but if he has the quality of a true sportsman he will come publicly to the aid of Davis if the wild yarn of the Locust Valley house being a gift from the Standard Oil Co. is revived.

A Democrat and a Democrat.
John Davis is a democrat as well as a Democrat. I count the first of his qualities. He is a simple, clean-living, sympathetic person. Since his nomination in Tennessee, twice I was asked this question: "Does he like poor folks or rich folks or both?" He has never had a word of answer. He has never known an instance where his friendship or his attitude had been influenced by the amount of money or lack of money a man had.

But the question interested me. That query lies close under the surface this year. Davis has been living in New York only since 1921 and I cannot see that he has been affected to the slightest degree by what the country at large knows as the Wall Street mind or the Wall Street point of view, and that is another way of saying a rich man's viewpoint. Davis has retained his simplicity, candor and courage.

I will agree with Mr. Bryan in this analysis: "The Democratic party and the La Follette party are, together, simply strong to defeat the Republican party. The question now is whether Mr. La Follette will draw enough strength from the Democrats to help the Republicans, or enough from both parties to be elected himself. That is the problem of the campaign."

His Mortgaged Home.
I am also apprehensive for fear that I will make Mr. Davis appear to you as that most tiresome of all creatures, the Perfect Man. I am not nominating him for office but only trying roughly to outline him as he is. I seek to destroy if I can the impression of him that I heard a Republican at New York attempt to convey when he said: "I hear Davis will make a gentleman's campaign. What else can you expect from a man who owns 23 walking sticks and a pair of black satin knee breeches." That is the sort of thing that will be used to injure Davis and obscure a clear sight of his real qualities and his eminent fitness to be President of the United States. But if there is truth in the adage that one should beware when all men speak well of you, Mr. Davis is in peril from his friends.

One of the yarns that Mr. Davis will have to meet during the campaign, in all probability, is the story that his house on Long Island was a gift from the Standard Oil Co. This false report was spread through West Virginia early in the spring and caused the Davis supporters there much annoyance and trouble. It has this basis: Mr. Davis bought the house at Locust Valley that had been occupied by A. C. Bedford, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. The records show that it is mortgaged to the eaves. It may become necessary for Mr. Davis to tell how much he paid down in cash and how much interest he pays on his mortgage notes.

Will Make His Own Platform.
I attach more importance to the impress of the Davis personality and to the views and convictions he expresses in this campaign than to the platform drafted at the New York convention. The speech of acceptance should provide the Davis platform. It should give the country a taste of his quality and of the principles that govern his political actions. He knows why

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Chairman William M. Butler of the Republican National Committee today declared that if the Democrats and Progressive Independents desired to make a campaign based on the candidates' personality, President Coolidge's managers would be ready to meet the challenge.

"As matters stand, our friendly enemies desire to make this, as some of them said, a campaign based on the personality of the candidates. We will be ready, if they desire to base the election on pledges or party records, we will not be disturbed," Chairman Butler said.

Campaign to Lag Until Labor Day

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
WASHINGTON, July 22.—Chairman William M. Butler of the Republican National Committee today declared that if the Democrats and Progressive Independents desired to make a campaign based on the candidates' personality, President Coolidge's managers would be ready to meet the challenge.

"As matters stand, our friendly enemies desire to make this, as some of them said, a campaign based on the personality of the candidates. We will be ready, if they desire to base the election on pledges or party records, we will not be disturbed," Chairman Butler said.

When asked if President Coolidge expected to make a Western trip or to go out at all, Butler replied, "That has not yet been decided. The President may make a limited number of speeches away from here, but at present there is no change in the original plan that he will stay here."

Butler said he did not know when the President would make his first campaign speech. He explained that the campaign would not be formally opened until after the notification ceremonies and that it would not be strenuously pursued until after Labor day, when people return from their vacations.

Outdoor Speaking Too Hard.
Butler said that the committee still was planning to hold the ceremonies in Continental Memorial Hall and not in the Sylvan Theater at Arlington. The hall seats only 2000 persons, and it was reported that the outdoor theater would be used to accommodate a larger audience. The objection to the outdoor speaking was that it would be hard on the President's voice.

Seats will be reserved in the hall, Butler said, for national committeemen and women, the Republican members of Congress and "other political officials." The remaining seats will be thrown open to the public.

Butler strongly indicated that the President would make the most of the radio, although he explained that as yet the committee had made no detailed arrangements. He said that the radio would be a great factor in the coming campaign and an aid to the Republican candidates.

"I think those of us who listened in must have had sober moments when from the convention halls the actual voices of the delegates came to our ears, as well as the disturbances and interruptions," he said.

Radio Creates Interest.
There is no denying that the general broadcasting of the Republican and Democratic conventions has given the people of the country a more direct interest in the campaign than they have ever had before. Millions of people through the radio were able this year to sit at home and hear the wheels revolve themselves. They felt they have secured an insight into political activities which they never have enjoyed before, and as a result there is more sober, serious thinking of the campaign as something vitally connected with the prosperity of the nation rather than merely a contest for office between candidates."

The radio, Butler explained, will bring out the stay-at-home vote. "I have always had a feeling of concern over the great stay-at-home vote which persists through elections, and wholly apart from our own success, I feel it is a national undertaking to see that this stay-at-home vote is stirred out of its apathy and made to function," he said. "I have no thought that all the new votes will be cast for the Coolidge-Dawes ticket, but as an American, I am ready to say that I feel even though they may not all vote with us this year, their attention at the polls will give me a feeling of satisfaction."

To Make National Campaign.
Both today and yesterday Butler emphasized the fact that the Republicans expect to make a national and not a sectional campaign. The nation-wide harmony which he said now prevails in the party will be one of the substantial assets of the Republicans."

Butler yesterday engaged in a series of discussions with party leaders, including Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania, and former Representative Hicks of New York.

Announcement later was made that Hicks, who represented the First New York district in the Sixty-fourth to Sixty-seventh Congresses, would take charge immediately of the Eastern headquarters, which were opened by Butler last week in New York.

Butler's Statement.
Butler in a statement given yesterday said:

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES FOR SHERIFF AND OTHER STATE OFFICES IN ST. LOUIS

Other Posts Include Public Administrator, Coroner and City Treasurers—One Alderman Also to Be Chosen.

The Post-Dispatch today presents facts about the Republican aspirants, in the primary of Aug. 5, for nominations for the offices of Sheriff, Public Administrator, Coroner, City Treasurer and Alderman of the Sixteenth Ward. A vacancy was caused in the last named office by death; the others become vacant this year in the regular course. Voters in the primary can vote for the candidates of one party only; hence the Republican candidates are presented together. The Democratic candidates for the same offices will be listed later.

SHERIFF.
James N. McKelvey, 4119 Washington boulevard. Formerly a building contractor. Appointed Building Commissioner by Mayor Krelmann in 1909; reappointed by Mayor Kiel in 1917 to Director of Public Safety, in which office he has supervision over Fire, Building, Smoke, Inspection, Weights and Measures, and Boiler and Elevator Inspection Departments. Has backing of Mayor Kiel and most of City Committee.

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR.
Otto A. Hampe (incumbent) 3545 California avenue. Has administered for four years, without incurring criticism, an office which in the past has been a fruitful source of criticism. Formerly a fire insurance agent, and alderman from the Tenth Ward. Backed in 1920 primarily by Collector Koeln.

CORONER.
George P. Weinbreuner, 2946 Lindell boulevard. His second candidacy for this nomination, which he sought unsuccessfully in 1920. Former Jury Commissioner, City Marshal and Sheriff; good official record in all these positions.

ALDERMAN.
Dr. B. W. Clarke, 3429 Morgan street. Graduate Washington University Medical School, 1897; in practice here continuously since. Executive secretary of the president West End Business Men's Association. Vice chairman Citizens' City Plan Commission, and chairman engineering and sanitation committee of the City Plan Commission. Editor and publisher of the Civic Review, and active in various civic movements, particularly the 1920 and 1923 bond issue campaigns.

CITY TREASURER.
William G. Buchner, 6245 Bowman avenue. Chief Deputy Treasurer the past four years, having had complete charge of the office during the last six months because of illness of Treasurer Duan. Was in the office of Collector Koeln for 11 years previously, having charge of water rates and sprinkling tax departments. Before entering city employment, was in the fire clay business for 10 years and in the grocery business 15 years.

Martin D. Lohmann, 810 Lami street. Teaming contractor. Elected to represent Ninth Ward in Board of Aldermen at first election under present charter, 1917; re-elected 1917 and 1921. Votes for Courthouse plaza site ordinance. In previous term as Alderman supported United Railways compromise measure any Mayor Kiel's attempt to raise the fare. Settled, also voted for passage and later for repeal of Stuever Forest Park clay mining bill. A frequent visitor to the Police Courts.

ALDERMAN, 16TH WARD.
William H. Grodpetter, 3671 Rutledge street. Carpenter. Deputy Marshal for 11 years. Was an inspector in the Street Department for 18 months.

Frank L. Wetzel, 8 Rankin avenue. Elected State Representative of the Tenth District in 1921 and 1923. Plumbing contractor.

McKelvey wished to run for Sheriff in 1920, but kept out of that race at the Mayor's request, in the interest of John Schmitt. Anton Schuler, 305A South Fourteenth street. City Marshal, by appointment of Mayor Kiel, since May, 1921. Republican city committeeman, Sixth Ward. In 1920, sought nomination for City Treasurer, with support of Goldstein "Courthouse Ring." He was at that time Deputy City Marshal. Has administered office of Marshal without criticism; this office has charge of police court prisoners and of city dog pound. Backed by Collector Koeln and a minority of City Committee in present campaign.

Fred Gehner, 43230 De Soto avenue. District Assessor, in City Assessor's office, since 1918; previously abstract clerk and title examiner in Assessor's office, and for a time in similar position in special tax department, under the Board of Public Safety.

James N. McKelvey, 4119 Washington boulevard. Formerly a building contractor. Appointed Building Commissioner by Mayor Krelmann in 1909; reappointed by Mayor Kiel in 1917 to Director of Public Safety, in which office he has supervision over Fire, Building, Smoke, Inspection, Weights and Measures, and Boiler and Elevator Inspection Departments. Has backing of Mayor Kiel and most of City Committee.

As Building Commissioner, directed work in the ruins of the M. A. Building, destroyed by fire with heavy loss of life. In course of this work, a wall fell and killed seven men. For his efforts during this period a testimonial dinner was given to McKelvey and a diamond stud was presented to him. As Building Commissioner, McKelvey was the subject of two inquiries, one by the City Council in 1912 and one by the Complaint Board in 1915. In both cases the inquiry resulted favorably to him. The Council inquiry was as to his connection with the McKelvey Construction Co. and that company's connection with the reconstruction of Havlin's Theater. The Complaint Board inquiry was occasioned by a charge that McKelvey favored a certain contractor in letting a contract for wrecking a city stable. Another contractor said he had offered to pay the city $1500 to let the city take over the contract as let, the city paid $400, and that the city thus lost $650. It was shown that the better bid was received after the letting of the contract.

As Director of Public Safety, McKelvey has continued to act as Building Commissioner, so that the city saves the salary of the Building Commissioner. He removed the McKelvey Construction Co. from the order of the Mayor. Had charge of enforcement of zoning law requirements, up to time when State Supreme Court held that law unconstitutional. Some incidents have shown that the McKelvey Construction Co., headed by the director's son, James G. McKelvey, has done work under permits granted by building department in exercise of the commissioner's discretionary powers. Candidates near the Stieloff Packing Co., 4331 Natural Bridge avenue, complained of issuance of a permit for a slaughter house there, the work to be done by a firm in which the younger McKelvey was interested. An injunction against the company, sought by the neighborhood, was denied by Judge Hall, one of his grounds being that the company was in the neighborhood before some of the complainants lived there.

It developed in 1920 that Director McKelvey was awarded about one-half of the "noncompetitive city plumbing work to Alfred L. Kiel, Mayor Kiel's brother. This work, awarded in seven years, amounted to $50,827. Kiel also got 12 per cent of the competitive work. The noncompetitive work consists of smaller jobs, on which bids are not sought. McKelvey and the Mayor said at the time that the Mayor had never asked for the work for his brother and McKelvey said the award was made because Kiel did good work. Kiel has continued to receive a considerable share of this work. As building commissioner, McKelvey has charge of junior service in the City Hall and Municipal Courts building. The Bureau of Municipal Research charged that this work was costing the city too much, and made comparisons with the cost of junior service at the Public Library and in one downtown office building, understood to have been the Railway Exchange. McKelvey denied the bureau's charges, and said the comparisons were unfair, and that the city gets its work done at less cost for floor space than most of the downtown office buildings. He refused to make any substantial change in line with the bureau's recommendations.

BY RICHARD L. STOKES.
The first true "opera weather" of the season—a hot, clear day followed by a rainless evening—was celebrated at the Municipal Theater last night by the magnificent production of "Naughty Marietta," an opera by Victor Herbert and Rida Johnson Young.

Audience received the work with a great deal of interest. The first act was the initial of the opera, the management decided with justice that it would bear repetition.

A genuine "American" opera, it is not only an American setting, but an American setting. "Naughty Marietta" wins the day in this field. For Mrs. Young's dramatic and absorbing story, her singing was some of the finest and most winning music of her lighter repertoire. And where, within the boundaries of the present United States, could one find a more picturesque locale than New Orleans at the eighteenth century—its French background, its motley population of adventurers, buccannars, spanglers, backwoodsmen, and quads?

And the orchestra, under the direction of Charles Frabin, was the scintillating overture, the lighting effect was visible in the wings of the proscenium. The first act has an opening which almost any librettist would be proud to concede. It is just here, about a fountain in a public square, the men asleep. The first act has an opening which almost any librettist would be proud to concede. It is just here, about a fountain in a public square, the men asleep.

But the production as a whole was to be as ideal as any soft, for the present direction. This was particularly true of the last act of the second act, with the entrance of the Jeuneuse Doree for site. Often dances and marches have been introduced for their own sake, regardless of the dramatic situation, but for this act some they were eminently appropriate. So we had ballet after ballet, of various racial characters, and a trio dance by Roland Woodruff and Misses Brinkley and Woodruff. This was a rich and beautiful scene, and the Countess d'Altena has fled from a convent in France to escape a hounding, white-skinned suitor, and bribed a casket to permit her to take her place in the desert.

It has explained a few reasons for the success of the dramatic sale of Adah, the beautiful slave girl, on the auction block. And there is the striking example of Marietta's "Dream" which, she heard in her dream, she could never remember. The ending, and she had a premonition—which turned out to be just what it could be supplied by the man whom she would love.

will depart next week for the East. They will go first to the Chesapeake Bay home of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Y. Tupper for a several weeks' visit, and later to Hot Springs, Va., to be the guests of Mrs. Charles Clark and her daughter, Miss Mary Donahue. They will visit in New York before returning.

Clarkville, Mo., is the center of summer activity for a group of St. Louisans who have beautiful summer estates near there. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. David C. Biggs of 5370 Waterman avenue; Mr. and Mrs. George P. Tower Jr. of Vandeventer place, Philip Seaton of Lindsell boulevard, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Robert, formerly of St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Caswell Dameron, the parents of Mrs. Theron Catlin of Brantwood also have a home there. House parties are the order of the day. Mr. Scullin recently was host to a group of St. Louis friends, and Mrs. Biggs have guests all summer. Mrs. Rufus Byrd of Jefferson Barracks is visiting them at present, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Maynard Johnston and Mrs. and Mrs. Tyra Goddard recently returned. Mrs. Howard Bailey will depart soon to visit them in the late summer. Mrs. Biggs and her mother, Mrs. George H. Goddard, plan a trip to Victoria, B. C.

Mrs. William A. Stickney of the St. Regis apartments, and her daughter, Mrs. Orion J. Willis, will spend the remainder of the summer at Biddeford Pool, Me. They plan to leave St. Louis within a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rasteur Jr. will depart within a week for an extended trip West. They will visit Banff and Lake Louise, in the Canadian Rockies. Mrs. Rasteur was Mrs. Jessie Tinsley Orthwein of Louisiana, Mo.

Mrs. J. B. C. Lucas of 4543 Forest Park boulevard will depart this afternoon for Denver, Colo., where she will visit her sister, Mrs. John Waddell, for several weeks. Her niece, Mrs. Marion Davis, of Indianapolis, Ind., who has been her guest, departed a few days ago for her home. She is the daughter of the late Mrs. Isabelle Lucas Sawyer.

Mrs. Charles Williams of St. Joseph, Mo., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Thomas H. Glancy, 4439 West Pine boulevard. She has been here about a week, and will remain for a similar length of time, during which a number of informal evening parties will be given for her. The visitor is a sister of Mrs. Morton J. Lucas and Miss Rose Cronk.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hart, who are spending the summer in Douglas Lodge, Minn., will return to St. Louis in the early fall for a visit to their daughter, Mrs. J. B. C. Lucas, before returning to their home in St. Augustine, Fla.

Mrs. T. O. Meloney of 6309 Pershing avenue and her daughters, Miss Marie and Miss Meloney, who are spending the summer in Europe, recently had a private audience with the Pope. The interview was arranged by Monsignor pluries, but terror-stricken at the thought of exposure.

The individual honors of the performance went to Miss Maynard in the title role. It is one of the most congenial parts of her local career; she was the alluring coquette and invigorating temptress to the life; and her singing and dancing were brilliant. If, from the six seasons of municipal opera, she Maynard would have no rival for the place of ingenue prima donna, Thomas Conkey also had his best role since "The Merry Widow," and it would be difficult to find a more distinguished, handsome and sinister villain.

Miss Arcore, whose methods have recently become gratifyingly subdued, contributed a large share to the evening's gaieties as Lisette. Other parts were spiritedly taken. Though we did not find Raymond Crane quite convincing in the alien type of a hustling Yankee. Though not at all the passionate and vengeful quadron of the story, Miss Helen Moore, a member of the chorus, looked wise enough to Etienne's desertion, and she sang with sweetness and appeal, but in a small voice which would have profited by one of the association's scholarships. Charles Hart by no means effaced memories of Craig Campbell; at that, Capt. Warrington was the best role he has played here.

Several chorus members had minor speaking, singing and dancing parts, dispatched for the most part with a poise and ease marking an emphasis advance. And as for the chorus as a whole, its zest, exuberance and flexibility were thrilling; and the massed volume of its tone, as in the finale of the first act, had a thrust and power, as well as beauty, otherwise unknown to the light opera theater. Victor Herbert's writing for the orchestra, in "Naughty Marietta," is an endowment to the ear. As the cast was virtually identical with that of last summer, the opening night performance had more than usual smokiness.

WAGNERIAN FESTIVAL

REVIVED AT BAYREUTH

Composer's Widow, 86, From Villa Near by Watches Crowds Enter Theater.

By the Associated Press.
BAYREUTH, Bavaria, July 22.—Wagnerian opera is again holding the stage at Bayreuth just as the great master wanted his works produced. The revived Wagnerian festival opens this afternoon with "Die Meistersinger" 10 years after the declaration of the World War brought the festival to a sudden close in the midst of a performance of "Parsifal."

Mme. Schumann-Helnicke had just concluded singing her song from the tower of the Grail Temple, advising the knights of the message of love and redemption, when the startling news came that Germany had declared war on Russia. That was Aug. 1, 1914. The production of "Parsifal" never was concluded. Singers, musicians and listeners scattered. Many of them were under arms within a few hours and when the doors of the Wagner Festival Theater closed it seemed that it might never open again.

But the widow of the great composer, Frau Cosima Wagner, then 76 years old, thought otherwise. She said she would not die until the perpetuation of her husband's favorite hobby was assured. Even in the days when fighting was most desperate and it seemed that peace would never come, she did not lose heart. And finally, through the efforts of her son, Siegfried Wagner, who recently toured the United States, sufficient money was raised in America to finance the revival of the festival.

Frau Cosima Wagner was not able to attend today's performance, as she was advised by her physicians that the nervous and temperamental strain would be too much for her. But the widow planned to sit on the veranda of Villa Wahnfried, adjoining the festival theater, and watch the crowds enter, and hear the distant echoes of the music which is such a vital part of her life.

The Wagner festival under the republic is quite unlike the festivals of old. There is no German Emperor to sit in the imperial box. The King of Bavaria is no more and the seats which royalty formerly occupied at every performance now are held by music lovers from many lands, especially by Americans who made the revival of the festival possible.

YACHT ON WAY FROM CHICAGO TO SOUTH SEA TO STOP HERE

Former Mayor Thompson of That City to Be Welcomed by Chamber of Commerce Thursday.
William Hale Thompson's 68-foot yacht, "Big Bill," bound for the South Seas in pursuit of tree-climbing fish, will be at St. Louis Thursday. It will arrive here at 8 a. m. and the up for the day at the foot of Washington avenue, where Thompson will be welcomed by a Chamber of Commerce committee. The "Big Bill" came from Chicago through the drainage canal and the Illinois River. Thompson, former Mayor of Chicago, boarded the boat at Peoria and will stay with it to New Orleans. It arrived at Alton at 8:45 today, where it will remain until tomorrow. Besides capturing the tree-climbing fish, Thompson expects to provide an argument for deep waterways and demonstrate the possibilities of Chicago as a seaport.

WAS NURSE DURING CIVIL WAR

Sister Mary Louis First to Become Sister of Mercy Here, Dead at 84.
Sister Mary Louis, who died last Friday at the age of 84 at the Convent of Mercy, Webster Groves, was the first to enter that order in St. Louis, assuming her religious name on March 12, 1861, in the little convent at Tenth and Morgan streets that had been established by six Sisters of Mercy from New York. The family name of the 21-year-old girl from Ireland has since been forgotten.

During the Civil War the Sisters of Mercy nursed the wounded and sick of both sides, and when peace came, visited the poor and unfortunate. Sister Mary Louis was active until seven years ago. She was buried Sunday in a private plot in Webster Groves, other sisters acting as pallbearers.

BUTLER IS READY FOR PERSONALITY BATTLE, HE SAYS

ing a large number of communications from men and women, who admit that their interest in past State affairs has only been incidental, but who are now anxious to participate in the present campaign.

"Directly following the closing of the conventions which nominated the two other presidential candidates I was interested to know if there would be any change in the character of, or the spirit of, the messages I received. I am happy to say that in reviewing these messages which have come from all over the country I find that the confidence in the President and the admiration for his policies has materially increased.

Predicts Record Vote.
"I am almost ready to make one prediction, namely, that the November election of this year will show a larger total participation than any election we have ever had. I anticipate that not less than 30,000,000 of men and women will vote. The signs seem to be in the air and I have every expectation that President Coolidge will gain by this increased total vote.

"The presidential campaign will be nationwide. We do not propose to seek support in one section of the country through concentrated and obvious effort, and to try to gain it in another section by silence and evasion of issues. We have a party platform and a presidential ticket that make it possible to conduct a campaign everywhere in the open, as energetically in one part of the country as in another, and to present our cause with the utmost frankness.

"The Republican managers are fully alive to the problems which are considered local to certain sections of the country, and we are prepared to meet them. But we will not meet them in any sectional way. The economic or social distress of any part of the country is a matter of national concern, and that is the principle upon which we will conduct our campaign.

"The suggestion that the campaign must be centered here or there, to assure success, or that we must bombard any particular State or group of states, can only come from political parties or candidates that lack national appeal and viewpoint. I know it must be resented by the states in question."

FAIRBANKS AND OLYMPIC ATHLETES BACK FROM EUROPE

Walter Hagen, Goller, Gloria Swanson Also Return—Duchess de Richelieu Arrives.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The steamer Leviathan arrived late last night, bringing from Europe Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, Mary's mother, Little Mary Pickford Rupp, a niece of the motion picture star, and Gloria Swanson.

When told that David W. Griffith, director-producer, was going to Embury Players-Lasky, Fairbanks replied: "He thinks he is. He has a three-year contract with us, the United Artists."

Walter Hagen, golfer, who won the British open championship for the second time, was a passenger. He said he was accorded a wonderful reception abroad and would go back next year to defend his title.

Many returning Olympic athletes were on the vessel. Among them was Maj. John J. Doolley, manager of the rifle team, who said that William S. Silkworth of the trapshooters saved the day for America in that event. When Silkworth came up to shoot he had to break his bird to tie the Canada score. He broke nine.

The Duchess de Richelieu, the former Eleanor Douglas Wise, who took a prominent part in trying to obtain clemency for Walter Muir, recently put to death in Canada, was surprised to learn that the young man had been hanged.

"It has spoiled my coming to America. It is outrageous," said the Duchess, who said she had advised Cardinal Hayes in hope of having Muir's life saved.

The Maharaja Rapenda Bahadur of Jind and his young wife were passengers on the Leviathan. He came to America, it was said by his secretary to consult physicians about his health.

JOHN W. DAVIS, AS SEEN BY A MAN WHO
"KNEW HIM WHEN"

he is a Democrat. He believes that his party above all others is a party of achievement.

Mr. Davis has characterized the Democratic party in these terms:
"It is not uncommon history of political parties that they come into being for the purpose of executing a definite program, and when that program has been finished they fall into decay, while new parties rise upon their ruins.
To this rule the career of the Democratic party is a striking exception. It has survived long days of adversity. When one program was completed, it has always possessed the energy and the imagination to prepare another; and today, unlike its great Republican rival, which has abandoned an entire section of the country save for the purpose of collecting delegates to conventions, it fights battles in every State from Maine to California and from the lakes to the gulf.
It does not invite to its rank
those who follow Hamilton in thinking of the Government as the rightful possession of the 'rich, the well-born and the able' within one of which classes, by the way, the advocates of such theories never fail to include themselves.

The Genuine Democrat.

"The political plane occupied by the Democratic party is not difficult to comprehend or define. It is a common error to seek to divide mankind into but two great classes
—the conservatives and the radicalical; or, to use the substitutes now so popular but which by constant repetition have become almost lexical, the reactionaries and the progressives. Such terms at their very best are rarely more than half-truths, for one and the same man may be a conservative of conservatives on one question and yet radical on another, or a reactionary on one question and yet a progressive on another. But if conservative means one who is so timid or well satisfied that he is instinctively alarmed
by any thought of change, and radical one who through discontent or sheer love of experiment is ready to welcome any alteration in the scheme of things, it is clear that neither adjective is broad enough to describe a Democrat.

He rightfully belongs to that far larger group who think that it is the part of wisdom to profit by lessons which the past has to give and that it is 'better to preserve
what it is not necessary to destroy' yet since, in the words of Woodrow Wilson, progress is motion, government is action, are ready fearlessly to accept old principles in new situations and either make precedents or break them
when necessity demands.

"In short, the genuine Democrat is a liberal with a liberal's outlook on life; loving freedom for freedom's sake; believing in the wholesome virtue of self-help; hating privilege in whatever form;
wishing nothing for himself from the Government that his neighbor cannot also enjoy; willing to think of the rights and interests of other men equally with his own; trusting the best and not the worst in human nature to prevail; and looking to a reign of good will, mutual aid and co-operation as the ultimate goal not only of men but also of nations."

Question of Confidence.
Of this campaign Mr. Davis says:
"Make no mistakes. No matter how many separate questions may be involved in the inquiry, the issue before the American people
this year is the question of confidence or no confidence in those who are now seeking to administer
the Government, and their vote will be 'content' or 'non-content'."
"What is to be said of the administration of the executive departments of the Government under those 'best minds' called together for the purpose? Here, if anywhere, is to be found the acid test, for, after all, by far the greater part of the business of government consists not in devising new laws or planning new expedients,
but in running with wisdom and efficiency the machinery by which the people are already served. No patriot, however partisan, can exist in the sorry disclosures of greed, corruption and mal-administration that have shocked the country and shamed America before the world.
No right-thinking man will seek to paliate or defend the 'best minds'.
Partisan advocates who try to screen
the wretches that have been exposed by crying out against the exposure belittle and besmirch only themselves. Corrupt officials and their friends make a sorry defense
when they can do no better than share their blame with those who do not share their official responsibility.

"Much has been said, and rightly, of the unholy alliance between Big Business and crooked politics, but there is danger of putting the emphasis on the wrong adjective.
For whether it is Big Business striving to grow bigger, or little businesses hoping to grow big, it is crooked business and crooked politics that make the accused partnership. In the court of public opinion as in a court of law we must see to it that no distinction be made between the public official who betrays his trust and the private citizen who profits by that betrayal.

"Let us get back to Jefferson.
The whole art of government,"
said he, "consists in being honest."
A public office is a public trust.
I have known every man who has been or who has sought to be President for the last 20 years. I have never known one better fitted by character and quality for that great place than John W. Davis.
Scores of men who have participated in our national affairs can sign that bit of testimony.

PHYSICIAN ROBBED IN AUTO
Lives $16 and Watch When Held Up by Thieves
Two armed men ordered Dr. Manling of 5604 Delmar and a woman companion to get into the physician's parked automobile at Goodfellow avenue and Delmar road last night, took a watch from Dr. Manling and commanded them to walk down the street. Walking a little distance Dr. Manling looked back and saw the robbers sneaking away, whereupon he returned for his car.
About the same time a man, who flashed some sort of badge, pretended to arrest Michael Morello of 1726 Franklin avenue and a woman companion, who were seated on a bench in the east end of Tower Grove Park. He started toward the Avenue Police Station with them, then said "$15 will sum from Morello," and disappeared.

LA FOLLETTE TO O. K. CERTAIN CANDIDATES

Those in Race for Congress Who Favor His Policies to Be Indorsed.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 22.—Determined to increase the strength of the insurgent bloc in the House and Senate, those in charge of Senator La Follette's independent campaign for the presidency plan to let voters know, well in advance of election day, which congressional candidates they favor. Senators and Representatives who have been in accord with La Follette policies, and are up for reelection, will be given indorsement, while in some States and districts encouragement will be given to "liberal" candidates in the field against members of the Senate and House whom the followers of the Wisconsin Senator classify as "reactionary."

Tentative plans worked out for the campaign place indorsement of congressional candidates in the hands of the Campaign Committee of eleven, which probably will begin functioning within a few days. Advisers of Mr. La Follette and of Senator Wheeler of Montana, his running mate, believe the committee should scrutinize carefully the records of all candidates, whether they are seeking its indorsement or are apparently out of sympathy with the La Follette movement. One object of this scrutiny, it was said by some of La Follette's friends, will be the withholding of indorsement from candidates attempting, without bona fide basis, to make it appear they are identified with the Wisconsin Senator's campaign.

La Follette adherents here do not expect to have candidates in the field in every State and district, but they expect enough of their supporters to be on the congressional ballots to give voters in sections where there is considerable La Follette sentiment an opportunity to record their preference.

La Follette to Guide Committee. The campaign committee, in making public indorsements is expected to follow the desires of Senators La Follette and Wheeler, who are known to favor the reelection of at least a half-dozen Senators.

Senator Wheeler has announced his intention of supporting Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, for re-election and also to work for the re-election of Senator David L. Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts. Senator La Follette, while he has made no public expression of his preference, is understood to feel kindly toward both, and it was predicted today that he and Senator Wheeler probably would indorse the candidates of Senators Brookhart, Iowa; Norris, Nebraska, and perhaps Borah, Idaho, Republicans, and Senator Magnus Johnson, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota.

Late this week Senator Wheeler plans to go with his family to some New England resort for several weeks' rest. He probably will begin a speech-making tour before Senator La Follette takes the stump. Wheeler said today that efforts would be made in early stages of the campaign to gain a foothold in such states as Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Iowa, and he declared the campaign would be directed with equal vigor against both the Republican and Democratic parties.

South Dakota Farmer-Labor Party for La Follette. By the Associated Press. SIOUX FALLS, S. D., July 22.—The Farmer-Labor party in South Dakota will give its entire support to the candidacy of Senator Robert M. La Follette for the presidency and will lend no aid to the candidacy of William Z. Foster indorsed by the national Farmer-Labor party executive committee, it was announced today.

The decision to support La Follette, it was announced by L. J. Putnam of Timber Lake, party candidate for Governor, was reached at a meeting of the State committee of the party Friday night at Mitchell.

Sheppard Opens Headquarters As Representative of Rail Union. CHICAGO, July 22.—L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railroad Conductors, opened headquarters here yesterday as the chief representative of 20 railroad labor organizations in the presidential campaign of Robert M. La Follette.

"I was selected by the executive heads of 20 standard organizations, representing all the recognized labor organizations in the railroad world," said Sheppard. "I shall spend most of my time in Chicago, directing the campaign among railroad workers and assisting Representative Nelson of Wisconsin, the national manager for Senator La Follette."

LOCAL FIGHTS TO BRING OUT VOTE ON GOVERNORSHIP

While They Are Electing Sheriff in Randolph County Some Will Cast Ballots for Other Offices.

SITUATION TRUE OF OTHER COUNTIES ALSO

Little Interest Shown in gubernatorial Race, but Jacobs and Nelson Seem to Be Leading.

BY CURTIS A. REITS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MOBERLY, Mo., July 22.—If Ike Haines and some six other Randolph County citizens were not running for Sheriff or if Redick O'Brien and Bill Stringer were not having a life and death struggle for the Democratic nomination for Prosecuting Attorney, none of the candidates for the party preference for the governorship would get many votes in this county. The voters show little evidence of caring who is nominated for the governorship. As it is they are interested in Ike Haines for Bill Irons or Vic McCann, or Ben Radloff or Harry Polson or Henry Owens or Bruce Hammond, each of whom wants to be Sheriff more than he ever wanted anything in his life.

The friends of Ike and Bill and Vic and the rest of 'em seem to be just as anxious about it as they are. So it is in the case of Redick and the other Bill for Prosecuting Attorney. They will have to go to the polls on primary day to vote in the Sheriff's race and the Prosecuting Attorney's race and so, of course, while they are about that, they will vote for somebody for the governorship and they are gradually getting lined up on who they will favor. What is true in Randolph County is true in more or less degree in the other counties of the Second Congressional District. The local fights, not the governorship, will bring out the vote.

No Republican Contests. In Randolph and Monroe counties there are no local Republican contests. Whoever gets the nomination for county offices on the Democratic ticket is certain of election and Republicans do not bother themselves to get nominated for these offices. There being no local fights and nearly all the Republicans having something of a neighborly interest in somebody seeking a Democratic nomination, most of the Republicans vote in the Democratic primary. In the general election many of them do not bother to vote at all. There is always a much larger vote for Democratic candidates in the primary in Randolph, Monroe and a number of other strong Democratic counties than there is for the Democratic nominee in the general election.

In 1922 in Randolph County the three candidates for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate received a total of 1253 votes, and yet in the general election the candidates on the Democratic ticket received only 4321 votes. In the Republican primary only 877 votes were cast, and in the general election 1741. The same was true in Monroe County. In the primary the Democratic vote was 1995, but in the general election it was only 4995. Only 123 votes were cast in the Republican primary while in the general election there were 710. The Democratic nominee in these counties being certain of election, many Democrats do not trouble themselves to vote in the general election.

It, of course, is illegal for Republicans to vote in a Democratic primary, but nobody ever raises the question because each of the local candidates is getting some Republican votes and hopes to get more. Now as to the Democratic primary race for the governorship, there being so few Republican votes in the district that will be cast in the Republican primary that the State candidates are seldom even discussed. A survey of the situation in Randolph and Monroe counties, typical Democratic counties, each with a very large rural vote, and Randolph with a considerable urban vote, indicates that the governorship contest here really is between Dr. Arthur W. Nelson of Buchanan and Floyd E. Jacobs of Kansas City, with some doubt as to which will carry Randolph County, but with the probability that Nelson will win in Monroe by a good plurality.

Present Record in Monroe. Henry B. Priest of St. Louis stands a chance to be second in Monroe County, according to well-informed persons, and will get a fair-sized vote in Randolph, though there is nothing to indicate that he will be better than third in the race there. George H. Moore has an active support in both counties and will get a good vote. It is said here that Nelson is not so strong as he was several weeks ago and that there has been a division of some votes from him to some of the other candidates, though, according to many of the

How Mt. Geikie Was Conquered by Perilous Crawl Over Snow Bridge

Climbers Crossed Chasm 4000 Feet Deep Upon Structure So Frail It Would Not Bear a Man's Weight Standing.

The following account of the scaling of Mount Geikie, in the Canadian Rockies, which has denied all man's efforts to reach its peak in years past, is written by Cyril Swates of Edmonton, Alberta, the first man ever to set foot on the virgin mountain crest. Mount Geikie, with its altitude of 10,854 feet, has been regarded as impregnable, due to the precipitous nature of its rocky cliffs.

By CYRIL SWATES.

JASPER, Alberta, July 22.—Geikie is climbed, and as I write this I cannot help a feeling of the most intense satisfaction to know that the task which we set ourselves a year ago by the director of the Alpine Club is now accomplished, and furthermore that our various attempts in previous years were not wasted, but that the route which we had selected proved, in the end, to be the solution of the problem. At 2:50 a. m. we left camp, still in darkness and by the light of a candle lantern again traversed the rock slopes to the Blue Ink Well.

We started up the first gray light of the dawn. The snow, although very steep, was firm and the use of the rope was not deemed necessary.

Snow Ready to Avalanche.

About two hours we reached a point half way up the column where there were indications that the snow which covered a bed of ice, was in a condition ready to avalanche, and it was deemed advisable to get on to the rocks on the side. The sides of the Couloirs are precipitous cliffs and in 1923 we climbed the right-hand side. On this occasion, however, we decided to try the left and regretted doing so, as the rocks, while not so steep, were in a frightful condition of rottenness and every hand and foot held had to be accepted with the expectation of its breaking away at any moment. Here the rope was imperative and Val Fynn of St. Louis, Mo., who was leading, had to make his stance secure before either Geddes or myself could reach him. Presently the rocks became more firm and we reached the column and could take a bit of second breakfast, both of which we urgently needed.

We began the ascent of a great rib on the north side of the column by means of a series of chimneys. At the upper end of these chimneys we came to a cleft about three feet wide running into the very heart of the mountain and obstructed at intervals by boulders wedged between the two walls. This I knew to be the correct route and Fynn worked his way from boulder to boulder, we following him until we gained the top of the cleft, emerging through a vertical tunnel to a tiny ledge overhanging the tremendous cliffs of the north face. Facing us about 30 feet away was another tiny ledge and our only hope was of reaching this way by crossing a bridge formed by a small quantity of snow plastered against the face of the wall and punctured with holes through which it was possible to see into the Tonnin Valley.

Crawled Across Snow Bridge. The frailness of the dizzy snow bridge was such that we were obliged to crawl across lying full length in order to distribute the weight of the body. Each one made his way by the aid of a number of times within the past five or six years at picnics, lodge ceremonies, school commencement exercises and various civic affairs. He has formed friendships which are helpful to him now. In addition to the support Nelson is receiving among supporters of some of his opponents, there is the probability that he will be the high man in both counties.

Jacobs has very active support in Randolph County, particularly among the younger Democrats. He has spoken in the county a number of times within the past five or six years at picnics, lodge ceremonies, school commencement exercises and various civic affairs. He has formed friendships which are helpful to him now. In addition to the support Nelson is receiving among

Reed Supporters Split.

The situation in this county demonstrates one thing very conclusively: Moore's endorsement of Senator Reed for the support of the Missouri delegation for the presidential nomination has done him no appreciable good, and, in fact, there are some indications that he will suffer from it. Randolph County was a bitter Reed fighting ground in 1922. Now the Reed supporters are split many ways on Governor.

Leading in support of Nelson are Maj. J. Lilly, Obo Wright and Dr. R. P. Towless. Lilly and Wright were strong Reed supporters. Wright being the Reed manager in the county.

John Lynch, former United States Marshal in St. Louis, and a last-ditch Reedite, is supporting Priest.

Edmund Burke, a strong Reed follower, is supporting Jacobs, who also counts among the more influential of his supporters C. M. Hulen, Austin Walden and W. B. Stone, all of whom were anti-Reed in the 1922 primary.

Leaders in support of Moore are Jerry Jeffries, a brother of Sam B. Jeffries of St. Louis, and Frank Holtzinger. Jeffries had no active part in the Reed fight, but Holtzinger was a Reed supporter. It is said here that Reed has member that it was not sufficient to cross the bridge in safety; it must be left in such a condition that we could use it on our return or our way of escape would be cut off.

We were now upon a ledge overhanging the north face and to remain the edge of the ridge it was necessary to ascend a steep little goullet filled with snow and ice.

The climb, while never easy, was spectacular, with the exception of one place, where we climbed a tiny crack in a steeply inclined rock by means of stones which we wedged into the crack. Just below our highest point in 1922, we turned to the left. We started along the ledge, and at one point were obliged to slip around a projecting boulder which overhung in such a way that one could look between one's feet down sheer cliffs hundreds of feet in height. A way of ascent now opened itself before us. We climbed quickly up firm ledges and in a short time stood on the top of the great black cliffs which had turned us back two years before.

The Mountain Conquered.

To our delighted gaze was opened up a view of the actual summit, seeming not a stone's throw away, and separate from us only by a shallow depression. Here Fynn turned to me and said, "The peak is ours," and courteously mentioned me into the lead. We crossed the depression, climbed the rocks beyond, and a few moments later joined in mutual hand clasps upon the snow-crowned summit of Mount Geikie, which had caused us so much exertion. It was 6 o'clock in the afternoon. The ascent had taken us 13 hours from camp and we dared not waste much time. The customary cairn was built with records claiming the first ascent.

My account of the descent will be very brief, though that will be no indication of the difficulty. No longer buoyed up by the enthusiasm of successful effort the necessity of our constant concentration to prevent a slip which might be fatal became almost more than human nature could endure. We worked our way down chimneys, over snow bridges and along cracks and finally reached the snow in the great Couloir when all daylight had faded. It took us until 1:30 in the morning to reach the Blue Ink Well, over four hours being spent on the snow curtain, roped together and facing the slope.

Down the Wall Backward.

The procedure was as follows: The lead was first buried almost to the head between one's feet. With this as an anchor one's foot reached backward and kicked a hole in the hard snow. The other foot followed suit and then the lead was lifted cautiously above one's head and again driven in between the feet. After a while in the dim light of a hood hidden by thick smoke, this process became almost automatic and it was as if reaching this way to a well-known condition. At such times one finds one's self wondering what there is in mountaineering and yet the next day we are eager to return to some equally arduous task. Perhaps the most soul-trying part of the entire descent was the journey from the Ink Well into camp, when the necessity for concentration and the presence of danger no longer existed and the fatigued muscles refused to hold the body firmly up on the feet. We staggered like drunken men, often falling headlong, the others not even glancing around upon the occurrence of such an accident.

the farmers as the "farmer candidate," he has active support from the politicians, due to a close association one Democratic element in the county for many years has had with the Pendergast organization in Kansas City, which is supporting Nelson. While William Kelly, proprietor of the Merchants Hotel in Moberly, who could be classed as the head of this element, has shown no particular interest in the campaign so far, he is expected to line up for Nelson because of the Pendergast influence.

Reed Supporters Split.

The situation in this county demonstrates one thing very conclusively: Moore's endorsement of Senator Reed for the support of the Missouri delegation for the presidential nomination has done him no appreciable good, and, in fact, there are some indications that he will suffer from it. Randolph County was a bitter Reed fighting ground in 1922. Now the Reed supporters are split many ways on Governor.

Leading in support of Nelson are Maj. J. Lilly, Obo Wright and Dr. R. P. Towless. Lilly and Wright were strong Reed supporters. Wright being the Reed manager in the county.

John Lynch, former United States Marshal in St. Louis, and a last-ditch Reedite, is supporting Priest.

Edmund Burke, a strong Reed follower, is supporting Jacobs, who also counts among the more influential of his supporters C. M. Hulen, Austin Walden and W. B. Stone, all of whom were anti-Reed in the 1922 primary.

Leaders in support of Moore are Jerry Jeffries, a brother of Sam B. Jeffries of St. Louis, and Frank Holtzinger. Jeffries had no active part in the Reed fight, but Holtzinger was a Reed supporter. It is said here that Reed has

OAKLEY WITHDRAWS, CRITICISING PARTY

Declares National Convention Was Not in Harmony With Principles of Jefferson.

Thomas J. O'Brien and Andrew C. Maroney will contest for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Attorney in the primary Aug. 5, following the withdrawal of Ernest F. Oakley Jr. as a candidate. Oakley, who formerly held the office of Prosecuting Attorney by appointment, has sent a letter of withdrawal to Chairman Meester of the Democratic City Committee. He says that when he filed as a candidate, he believed the Democratic national convention would adopt a platform in harmony with the principles of Jefferson. This, he says, the convention failed to do, and he therefore withdrew. He denounced Charles W. Bryan, vice-presidential nominee, as a supporter of the attitude of his brother, William Jennings Bryan, in denouncing the anti-Klan plank. Because John W. Davis favored Bryan as his running mate, Oakley declares he will not support Davis and Bryan. As local candidates are expected to support the national ticket, he deduces that he should not seek a nomination on the local Democratic ticket.

C. D. Tamme Drops Out of Sixth Ward Contest. C. D. Tamme has withdrawn from the contest for Republican committeeman of the Sixth Ward, to be elected in the primary Aug. 5. He favors the election of his nephew, William J. Tamme Jr. Other candidates are R. E. Walker, William Menagh and R. T. Scott, a negro.

LORD'S DAUGHTER KILLED

Hon. Violet Harding Dies From Fall Off Horse. By the Associated Press. WINCHESTER, England, July 22.—Lord Ashburton's youngest daughter, the Hon. Violet Alma Madeline Harding, died yesterday from injuries received when she was thrown from her horse. She was the step-daughter of Lady Ashburton, formerly Frances Donnelly, daughter of J. C. Donnelly of New York.

The accident occurred when the young woman was exercising a horse alone. It was at first thought her injuries consisted of only a slight concussion, but a hemorrhage set in which soon caused death.

taken no hand in the governorship and has sought to influence his personal friends and supporters for Moore, notwithstanding Moore's stand for Reed a few months ago. Moore did nothing for Reed in the 1922 campaign, however, when he had several hundred men working under him in the internal revenue office in St. Louis, which may account for the lack of interest in his candidacy on the part of Reed men now.

Such talk as there is on the Republican side here is favorable to Sam A. Baker, who has spoken here. Harry Gilfillan, member of the Republican State Committee, and head of the inconsequential Republican organization in the county, is supporting Baker and most of those in his organization are with him. Lloyd has not campaigned in this section of the State. Victor J. Miller has any strength here, it is not yet in evidence.

The Ku Klux Klan apparently is having no influence in the political situation here, but in some neighboring counties, of which I will write later, it is said to be virtually the only issue.

"LIV" MORSE ISSUE AGAIN

Congressional Fight in Third District Centered Around Him.

CAMERON, Mo., July 22.—The "Liv" Morse issue has bobbed up again in the Third Congressional District. A quiet Republican primary campaign without speech-making or recrimination has developed suddenly into a real fight for the congressional nomination. Supporters of H. F. Lawrence, Republican, formerly Representative from this district, charge that the deceased boss is seeking to regain a foothold through secret support of Fred W. Mitchell, Excelsior Springs, who is opposing Lawrence. This is denied by Mitchell's friends. The Morse issue has been put squarely before the Republican voters by a letter Lawrence is sending in the district. "I have always stood for clean politics," writes Lawrence, "and against the commercializing of public patronage. This position has in past aroused the opposition of the element in our party headed by Liv Morse, who constitutes the party problem in the Third District. My opponent in this primary (Mitchell) was secretary of the recent Morse convention in Clay County, so the Morse and anti-Morse issue is sharply drawn. All the evidence points to the fact that Morse is backing Mitchell, and I am certain he is not supporting me."

LIQUOR STOCK STOLEN FROM CHARLES D. P. HAMILTON HOME

False Partition in Second Floor Closet Removed While Family Was in Europe.

A policeman, noticing a side door open at 5513 Cates avenue, the home of Charles D. P. Hamilton, vice president of the International Shoe Co., who is in Europe with his family, investigated yesterday and found that intruders had forced their way in and removed a false partition in a second-floor closet.

The police called Charles D. P. Hamilton Jr. of 6403 Wydown boulevard, who, after examining the premises, said his father's private stock of wines and liquors, kept concealed behind the partition, was missing. He said he did not know the amount of liquor taken nor its value.

Nothing was discovered missing. The police think the theft was by someone who had learned of the hiding place for the liquor. Entrance to the house was gained by forcing a basement door, after which a hole was sawed in a door leading to the first floor, to enable it to be unlocked from the basement.

BODY AND COFFIN HALF A TON

Woman, 49, Weighed More Than 600 Pounds.

WATERBURY, Conn., July 22.—In a coffin made to order and called the largest ever used in New England, Mrs. Catherine Bristol, 49 years old, who weighed more than 600 pounds, was buried today in Riverside cemetery. In carrying it 100 feet from hearse to grave the 10 bearers had to stop twice to rest.

A block and fall was necessary to lower the coffin from the third floor home of Mrs. Bristol. The casket alone weighed 450 pounds, and was 6 feet long, 34 inches wide and 26 inches deep.

$30,000 FIRE DAMAGE AT COOPERAGE PLANT

Fire Lieutenant Overcome, but Revived, Department Horse Killed in Runaway.

Fire in the plant of the Wunderlich Co., Ninth and Clinton streets, discovered at 8:45 o'clock last night, was still smoldering 12 hours later, after causing damage to the building and contents estimated at $30,000. Hundreds of spectators were attracted by the dense smoke.

There were few flames to illuminate the building, and firemen were kept busy with darkness and smoke. Lieut. Anthony Schwab of Engine Co. No. 26, who attempted to enter at 9 o'clock this morning, was overcome and taken to City Hospital. He was revived and returned to the fire scene.

"Mickey," veteran gray horse attached to Engine Co. 18, and his teammate, were unhitched from their engine and tied to a pole at Second and Clinton streets last night. At 4:30 o'clock this morning the team became restless and ran away, colliding at Main and Biddle streets with a switch engine. "Mickey" was killed, and the other injured.

FREED OF ELECTION FRAUD CHARGES FOR SECOND TIME

Indictments Against Julius Schoenbein Dismissed by Judge Wurdeman.

For the second time, Julius Schoenbein of 1556 Irving avenue, Wellington, has been acquitted of a charge of taking part in the wholesale frauds of the country primary election of 1923. He was one of 16 indicted by the last grand jury on the charge of abstracting ballots from their boxes and voting fraudulent ballots.

Circuit Judge Wurdeman yesterday sustained a demurrer to the first 11 counts of the indictment against Schoenbein, relating to abstracted ballots, and sustained a motion to suppress evidence relating to the 19 counts about fraudulent ballots. Defense counsel were willing to waive these counts and go to trial, but the State was not ready, and the Judge dismissed the case.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Wilfred Jones said he would appeal the dismissal. Judge Wurdeman declared that the whole proceeding of the State was irregular. Nearly a year ago a previous charge against Schoenbein of interfering with election officials in the primary was ended by a direct verdict of acquittal in Judge Wurdeman's court. Schoenbein, a former Constable, is a candidate now for a Republican nomination for Constable.

POLICE BELIEVE LIQUOR FEUD PROMPTED MURDER OF MAN

Detectives Continue Inquiry Along Lines That Bootleggers Killed James Denna.

Convinced that a bootleggers' feud prompted the assassination of James Denna, 33 years old, who was shot to death by men in an automobile near his home at 4211 North Eleventh street early yesterday, detectives of the Homicide Bureau are continuing an investigation along that line.

They are seeking to establish a connection between the murder and a liquor raid of some kind a year ago, when a silk was found in a house in the 4600 block on Peck avenue, where Denna at that time lived. Denna apparently had no connection with this law violation and he was not prosecuted, but the detectives believe that perhaps he was suspected of "tipping off" the police or was connected with the liquor violation in some other way.

However, no arrests have been made so far. Denna, a United Railways track laborer, was walking toward his home when the assassin drove up to the curb and began firing automatic pistols and shot him in the chest. Ten or 11 shots were fired and Denna died almost instantly.

WARRANTS FOR MINE RAIDERS

Officers Start Out to Arrest Leaders in Oklahoma.

By the Associated Press. WILBURTON, Ok., July 22.—Warrants for the arrest of several leaders in the raid last Friday on the Kall-Inia Mine near Chambray were issued today by County Attorney Claud Briggs and Sheriff Austin Park and several deputies departed for the mining settlements to serve them.

The warrants charge rioting, inciting to riot and unlawful trespassing. No indication was made as to the number issued. The open shop fields in Latimer County continued quiet today with some minor operating under protection of State troops.

The Sunday Post-Dispatch has over 80,000 more city circulation than the only other Sunday newspaper in St. Louis.

The reading habits of the people in the first 21 cities show that America is a nation of EVENING newspaper readers.

St. Louis has long been recognized as an EVENING newspaper city with the Post-Dispatch as the one, big, popular newspaper covering the field.

In each of the other 20 major cities there is a leading EVENING newspaper — there is also a morning newspaper.

In these 21 cities the city circulation of the leading EVENING newspapers reaches the magnificent total of 3,192,980, exceeding the first morning newspapers by 1,097,341—more than 52% Greater Coverage than the morning newspapers.

Thus has the combined judgment of newspaper readers in these 21 major cities proved that the Great American Homes everywhere prefer the EVENING newspaper—giving EVENING newspapers a COMPACT circulation that makes the concentration of advertising most profitable.

MANION, WITH 143, SECOND LOW AMONG W. G. A. EARLY QUALIFIERS

Eddie Held, With 72 for Today's Play, Has Total Of 151 for Both Rounds

Donald Anderson, Another St. Louisan, Turns In an 84 and Is Eliminated—Arthur Sweet, Gets 69 for a Low Total of 141. Leading Western Title Field.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 22.—Art Sweet of Chicago, with 69 for today's round and a total of 141 for 36 holes, made a fine bid for low medal score in the qualification for the Western amateur golf championship at Hinsdale Golf Club, with half of the players in.

James Manion of St. Louis and Frank Dyer of Memphis held the temporary second place with 143 each.

E. B. Johnston of St. Paul, Minn., champion, stood three strokes further down the list with a pair of 15s, while George Dawson of the University of Illinois had 145.

Kenneth Hiatt of the University of Chicago today took one stroke off his first round with a 74 and headed qualified with 149.

Edwin Held of St. Louis recovered sharply from his mediocre golf of the first round and, setting a record of 32 for the first nine, put home with a par 72 for a total of 151.

Kate Carter of Oklahoma City shot a 77 today, one stroke more than yesterday, but seemed a likely qualifier with 153. Capt. E. F. Carter of Chicago, who led the field at the end of the first 18 holes with a fine 68, slumped badly in the second round and took 40 strokes for the outward half.

A stiff breeze swept the course which was heavier from last night's rain and, with the cups in more difficult places, scores generally ran somewhat higher than yesterday. Donald Anderson of St. Louis after scoring 77 Monday, today took 84 and eliminated himself. In Coach of Chicago, western junior champion, added an 84 to his 68 of yesterday.

From the young St. Louis star, followed it with another at the second, played the third in par and then ripped off his third hole at the fourth. The rest of the holes he played perfectly. At the seventh, 553 yards, he narrowly missed another birdie. Held's card with par comparison follows:

In . . . 3 4 4 3 5 4 4—32
Eddie Limberg Withdraws.
Dick Bokenkamp of St. Louis could not improve on the moderate score he made in the first round and with a 79 today probably eliminated himself from match play. Eddie Limberg of St. Louis fell off so badly from his 77 yesterday that he withdrew.

Practice Swing Again

THERE is a difference of opinion as to the limitations placed by the rule book on the practice swing. In the American Golf, says there is no rule against practice swings within a club's length of the ball and that the footnote to Rule 15, merely suggests to the player that he take practice swings more than a club's length away. Clarence Wolff called attention to Brown's ruling when an answer in this column said that practice swings within a club's length were contrary to the rules and could be penalized.

William Everett Hicks devotes three-quarters of a column in the Brooklyn Times to the question and supports the stand taken in this column on the interpretation of the rule. Excerpts from his article follow:

"Rule 15, match play rules, in an italic note, says, 'A player may take a practice swing or swings after the ball is in play more than a club's length from the ball—U. S. G. A.'"

"As it is difficult to say whether the distance is more than a club's length, nothing is usually said against a practice swing, even if it is perhaps inside a club's length. The rule seems merely a provision to prevent abuse of the privilege of practice swings."

"For example, a player might swing at a ball with the intention of hitting it, and if he missed it entirely, he might claim it was 'only a practice swing' and not count the stroke. We have heard of just such crooked work being done by smooth golfers. If there were no restriction as to a club's length, the cheat could not be called down. Now his opponent can say, 'That's a stroke for you, as you were within a club's length.'"

"In the face of such a limitation, how could a slippery player get away with such a claim? Manifestly, he could not. Of course, great players like the amateur and pro stars would not think of attempting to cheat thus; but in spite of the belief in some high quarters that the rules are framed on the theory that golfers are gentlemen, this club length qualification is inserted in the code to enable rogues to be taken care of."

Plestina to Give Bill Demetral and Londos Handicaps

Chicago Slav Must Throw Each Man Twice in Time Limit, in Bouts Here.

William Demetral and Marin Plestina, both of Chicago, principals in the feature wrestling event at Battery A, tomorrow night, were both training at local gymnasia, today. The match has a significance for both, in that each man is expecting a contest with Jim Londos, Greek title claimant, in the near future.

Plestina already is matched with Londos for July 20 at St. Louis University Field, and tomorrow night's match is of special interest since Demetral—who like Londos claims the Greek title—will meet Plestina under handicap conditions, as will Londos, later.

J. C. Marsh, manager of Plestina, wishes special attention called to the fact that his protegee must throw Demetral twice in two hours—the conditions first proposed to Londos.

No Pay for Failure

It is specified that in order for Plestina to receive anything for his effort, tomorrow night, he must fulfill the bargain of throwing Demetral twice in the time limit; but in any case the match is to go to a finish until one man is thrown twice.

Conditions of the Londos-Plestina match are more exacting on Plestina, who must throw Londos twice in 90 minutes, July 30.

Demetral today stated that if he defeated Plestina in their match he would challenge Londos and settle the matter of the Greek championship for good.

The Londos-Plestina match will differ from the Demetral affair in that there is no obligation on Londos' part to go to a finish if Plestina fails to toss him twice in one and one-half hours.

GOLF has been added to the sports program of the I. T. U. baseball tournament, which will be held in Chicago early in August. For years the printers have competed annually for the Garry Herrmann trophy, but this year, with a golf tourney on the program, the attendance promises to set a new record.

There will be four 18-hole rounds, each over the course of a different golf club—Aug. 4 at Edgebrook, Aug. 5 at Budlong, Aug. 6 at Big Oaks and Aug. 7 at Northwestern. The tournament will be at medal play.

Plans are to make it an annual feature. St. Louis expects to send a quartet of printers to the tourney.

WRAY'S COLUMN

What Will the Harvest Be?

LUIS ANGEL FIRPO is in the United States on this third kale-harvesting expedition. The crop is already standing and waiting to be reaped—some $200,000 is its value.

But there is something else that may be harvested not so gladome to the Pampas Bull's heart—DEFEAT.

Harry Willis is a real fighter of long experience—dangerous close in or at long range, a veteran fox to whom all pugilistic trails are as an open book. Schooled in the great academy of experience, with Professor Thom Langford as his professor, Willis is a post-graduate of pugilistic trickery.

He can punch, too. And if he did not knock out that wrought-iron specimen of manhood, Bartley Madden, it probably was because Willis did not wish to shatter his hands on the hard carapace of his foe, to gain a knockout that would have helped him not at all.

Will Hard to Hit

FIRPO will find no such shining mark for his side arm, clublike blows or for that telegraphic overhead right, such as he had when the muddled Jack Dempsey faced him. The Bull must expect to be manhandled beyond anything he has yet encountered.

It will be surprising if, few weeks ago, is not permanently reinstated after his fight with Willis.

The Next Olympics

THE overwhelming victory of the United States in the Olympics—now safe for America no matter what betides—may have two results.

It may stimulate other nations to further efforts toward athletic development, in the hope of making a better showing in 1928.

Or it may discourage them from spending money in fruitless competition with the greatest athletic nation in history.

The Northern and Central nations of Europe have shown constantly increasing interest in the Olympic and in sports in general; but the Mediterranean peoples have not taken to it so strongly.

As long as the Olympics are held in Europe, European nations will be represented as strongly as they can; but should Belgium decide that it cannot afford to undertake the great financial burden involved, the 1928 event will then go to Los Angeles or New York.

In that case Europe's Olympic attitude will be in question. Of what avail to go to the expense of sending teams over to this country with every possible condition favoring America? Better

Holke Equalled Record With 7 Assists at First

St. Louis Boy Who Plays With Phillies Tied a Long Standing Mark.

By John B. Foster.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Holke, first baseman of the Philadelphia Nationals, tied a world record in baseball in the first game of the double header against Chicago on July 13 when he made seven assists. Two others in the National have had that mark—Bransfield of Pittsburgh in 1904 and Luderus of Philadelphia in 1918. Seven assists in one game for a first baseman is unusual. The only American League first baseman with seven to his credit is Stovall, former St. Louis star. That is the high mark in the American League also.

First basemen made more assists when the batters bunted the ball more than they do now. Bunting has decreased 50 per cent in the last three years since the players began busting them out of the park. Unexpected use of the bunt these days finds the first baseman and the third baseman flat-footed half the time. In former years these two infielders were on their toes and coming forward on at least one-third of the batters who followed a man on base.

Wright, the Pittsburgh shortstop, has accepted nine chances in a standard nine-inning game ten times this year and in so doing he has already equaled the record which was made by Maraville of Pittsburgh in a whole season.

Wright and Jackson, of the champion Glens, are making first-year records as shortstops this season and both of them are doing well. It is probable that Wright will make the best first-season record of any shortstop who has entered the National League in a quarter of a century. He seems to be on the road to surpass the splendid performance of Dave Bancroft, who went to the Phillies in 1915 and lightened up an infield until the team won the championship largely on the strength of the showing that he made at short.

If Wright can do as well in the last half of the season as he has done in the first half he will set a mark that will leave the other ball players a task that will tax them to the utmost.

Of the three clubs bringing up the rear guard in the National League, the fall of the St. Louis Cardinals made the greatest racket. Yet when the work of the team is analyzed it will be found that it has not steered very far from its course, because a championship cannot be won by one or two star batters against an outfit like the Glens, which is made up of smart players.

The second division of the old circuit adjusted itself to places all too early to suit the owners, who try to make the league talk in a loud and credible voice like its American League neighbor. The Cardinals worked their way out of the cellar so quietly that nobody noticed it except a few loyal St. Louis fans. By so doing Philadelphia was shoved down the chute to eighth place again.

The sport of the Cardinals can avail them nothing in the championship way. They are seemingly through with the race except paying toll to the schedule and fulfilling their engagements.

"The next time you buy malt extract, ask for White Banner. Try it just that once on my 'say-so'. From then on you will buy it always, for the same reasons I do."

White Banner Malt Extract

There are good reasons why White Banner is preferred by those who know. It is the richest, purest, heaviest malt possible to make. Old malsters of many years experience make White Banner—and they do a job they are proud of.

White Banner is Union Made, 100 per cent pure and is sold by all Grocers and Delicatessens in full 3-lb. cans.

NEW HIGH AS STOCKS RISE

Railroad and Copper Shares Still Leaders—Short Covering in Oils—Bond Prices Up.

Today's Markets in Brief

NEW YORK, July 22.—Today's markets were chiefly influenced by the news that the Federal Reserve bank had raised the discount rate to 3 1/2 percent. This move, which was expected, had a general strengthening effect on the market. The stock market opened higher and continued to advance throughout the day. The bond market also showed a general upward movement. The grain market was quiet, with prices steady. The oil market showed some short covering, but prices remained firm.

By Leased Wire from the New York

NEW YORK, July 22.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

"Strength continued in the securities markets today, with copper and railroad stocks still leading. Money rates still were easy with the call rate on the stock exchange at 2 percent, and there were signs of increasing public participation. Total sales, in fact, ran up to about 1,300,000 shares. Some profit-taking was apparent in the morning; but this was easily absorbed and the close showed many gains of 1 and 2 points. Numerous new highs for the year were recorded. Short covering helped to bring oils higher. Bonds generally were slightly higher in a fairly active market."

"Strength continued in the foreign exchanges, although the news from London clearly indicated that serious difficulties are to be overcome before a German loan can be floated. The behavior of the market suggested that the controlling factor is the money situation, just as it is in the security markets here. Money rates have hardened further at London and there is a continuing tendency for European currencies to withdraw balances from this side of the water and for American balances to go abroad in search of better yields. Selling was the order of the day in the foreign exchange market, and was in good demand for future deliveries. At 4 1/2 cents the pound gained 3/4 cent and achieved a new high for the year. New highs also were achieved by the currencies of Holland and Switzerland. French francs advanced 1/2 cent to 2 1/2 cents at 3 1/2 cents. Dealing was active."

"Lower prices prevailed in the grain markets. After recent advances, profit-taking is noticeable today. This tendency was accentuated by less encouraging cables and a report that the Kansas wheat yield may be greater than had been expected. September wheat advanced 1/4 cent to 1 1/2 cents, and the same delivery of corn was off 1/4 cent to 1 1/2 cents."

"Cotton meanwhile opened lower in sympathy with Liverpool, rallied well on further reflections on the Government crop report, and ended the day little changed. Continued dry weather in the western part of the belt was a supporting factor. Although it was apparent that the commodity markets were readjusting their technical positions after recent disturbances."

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, July 22.—Promises of American assistance to Europe and growth of confidence that the dollar and gold conference will save the day for Europe today by lessening the dollar's position of starting dollar, carrying the dollar to a new high. The dollar advanced 1/4 cent to 1 1/2 cents, and the same delivery of corn was off 1/4 cent to 1 1/2 cents."

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

THE WOMAN OF IT

By MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

MAXIMS OF A MODERN MAID.

A woman praises her husband to his face he's suspicious of a "touch"; if she praises him behind his back her women friends are suspicious of a hidden scandal; if she doesn't praise him at all she's a "selfish, unappreciative American wife"—so what the use?

Even the man who never notices what a woman has on isn't the least bit absent-minded about noticing what she hasn't on, at the bathing beach.

Why a wife grows old faster than her husband because SHE has to worry about his expanding waistline—it's the least of HIS troubles!

Yes, Violet, they're still talking about platonic love—but it always was a good talking point.

A woman may know that wet feet set her husband's sciatic throbbing, that French pastry at lunch gives him a sick headache and putting off his visit to the dentist means the loss of an evening—but if she reminds him of any of these undoubted facts, he says!

Out of a "scene" the emotional woman gets three distinct values of pleasure—anticipation, performance and post-mortem.

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE GREAT LOVER.

Daughter, consider the ingratitude of man; for his thankless passeth understanding.

Verily, it taketh nine women to make a MAN—and ninety-and-nine to make a Great Lover.

Lo, one woman traineth a man in the way he should go—and in the end he goeth another woman's way.

One woman toucheth his heart and awakeneth it from slumber—another way he bestoweth his devotion upon another woman.

One damsel teacheth him the new dancesteps—and behold, he teacheth another damsel to the "prom."

One damsel instructeth him in the art of love-making and teacheth him to "pet"—and he practiceth his skill upon another damsel.

One woman introduceth him unto his own evening clothes and teacheth him in the tying of his cravat and persuadeth his hair to turn—and lo, when she hath transformed him from a cub into a man, he araveth himself in all his glory for another's delight.

One maiden leadeth him unto the secret corner in the garden—the next evening he leadeth another maiden thereto.

One woman breaketh his heart—and he picketh up the pieces and maketh them unto another woman as a souvenir.

One woman stimulateth his courage and maketh a man of him—the end he weddeth a woman who maketh a fool of him.

One woman feedeth his soul and satisfieth his heart—and, behold, he turneth unto another woman who feedeth his vanity and maketh him eyes.

Verily, verily, all the days of her life a woman is a PHILANTHROPIST, who wasteth her years in training men to be Great and Good Husbands—to other women!

For every man is the handwork of many women; yet he believeth in the Lord made him that way! And there is no made in him.

A Happy Surprise For Farmer Brown's Boy

Whatever you are, don't be a spy.
But still retain a watchful eye.

—Farmer Brown's Boy.

EVERY time that day that Farmer Brown's Boy looked up in the big maple tree close by the house he discovered either Happy Jack Squirrel or Mrs. Happy Jack. They were there when he went in to dinner at noon. They were there just before the Black Shadows came creeping up from the Purple Hills. He was sure they hadn't gone back to the Green Forest once during the day.

They were there when he went in to dinner at noon.

"I never have known Happy Jack to stay around like this," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "Always before he has gone back to the Green Forest before it was time for the Black Shadows. I wonder what it means."

By this time the Black Shadows had arrived. Farmer Brown's Boy went out and looked at through the big maple tree, but he saw nothing of Happy Jack or of Mrs. Happy Jack. "It must be they went back to the Green Forest while I was eating my supper," thought Farmer Brown's Boy. "I hope they'll come back tomorrow."

The next morning Farmer Brown's Boy was up very early. He had planned to go fishing, and he was up before daylight. You see, he had some work to do before he could go fishing. It was just after daylight that he came out of the barn. He looked up in the big maple tree. There sat Happy Jack!

"Well, well, well!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "You must have left the Green Forest before daylight to get over here so early."

Then he happened to look half way along a certain big branch, and there sat Mrs. Happy Jack. While he was looking at her she disappeared. He remembered then that that branch was dead and hollow. For a long time he had been planning to cut it off. A suspicion popped into his head. Perhaps Happy Jack and Mrs. Happy Jack had spent the night in that hollow branch.

He went into the house to get his breakfast. When he came out the first thing he did was to look up at that hollow branch. He was just in time to see Mrs. Happy Jack whisk into that hole with some dry leaves.

"As I live!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "I believe those Squirrels have moved over here from the Green Forest. I believe they are making their home in that hollow branch. If they are, it will be great fun. Perhaps by and by there will be some babies there."

He hurried into the house again to tell Mrs. Brown what he had seen and ask her to keep watch of that hollow branch during the day. Then he took his fishing pole and started for the Big River.

Mrs. Brown was quite as much interested as was Farmer Brown's Boy. Whenever she had a chance she peeped out at the big maple tree. Several times she saw Mrs. Happy Jack taking leaves and other things into that hollow branch. So when Farmer Brown's Boy returned late that afternoon with a nice string of fish for supper she told him what she had seen.

"They are going to live here. There is no doubt about it; they are going to be our neighbors!" cried Farmer Brown's Boy joyfully. "I'm glad I didn't cut off that dead branch when I planned to. It will stay there now as long as Happy Jack and Mrs. Happy Jack want to make use of it."

FAMOUS WOMEN

St. Genevieve.

It is St. Genevieve who is said in Catholic annals to have saved Paris from an attack by the Huns under Attila. She was born at Nanterre, near Paris. At 7 years of age she dedicated her life to the church, and after the death of her parents she went to live in Paris and here performed many acts of charity. She suffered persecution and attempts were said to have been made to drown her.

During the siege of Paris by Childeric she went out with a few followers and induced that King of the Franks to give her food for the starving poor of the city. St. Genevieve died at the age of 33. She is the patron saint of Paris, and many Parisians today worship at her shrine.

Fig Pudding.

Take ½ cup figs (cut fine); ¼ cup nuts (chopped in halves); ½ cup tapioca, 1 cup sugar, 1½ cups water, ¼ cup lemon juice; place all together in double boiler and steam about one hour. Serve plain or with whipped cream.

Apple snow can be used as a substitute for the whipped cream. Grate two apples. Place in bowl, add white of 1 egg and ¼ cup sugar. Beat grated apples, white of egg and sugar until it puffs like whipped cream.

The yolks of the eggs can be used to make a delicate custard which can be poured over the fig pudding and then a generous dash of the apple snow served on top. MRS. J. R. KADET, 3461 E. 82d street.

Where No Man's a Man Until He's Tattooed.

THERE is no need for men to work in the Samoan Islands. Once a family has built its hut they need do little else for the rest of their lives but play and partake in all the festivities of their tribe. For Nature has made of Samoa a veritable Utopia—eternal summer, shady palms in beautiful gardens, mountains that remain forever green and seas that blend a silver, green and purple!

There are coconuts, bananas, taro and breadfruit trees to supply the most savory foods, besides the chickens and pigs running wild, and all kinds of fish and sea foods right off the shores. Mulberry and other trees provide material for whatever clothes are necessary. And to satisfy their love for necklaces, bracelets and head-dresses, Samoans need but turn to the coral reefs and pandanus trees that line their isles and tower above them. Food and clothing are provided—they need only build their own homes.

This is the reason Samoans have time for all their athletic sports, feasts and tribal ceremonies—the "savanna," or ceremonial dance, and tattooing, for example.

Young men undergo great pain and spend several days to be tattooed—a custom established by their forefathers. But this is one of the first tests of manhood young men are compelled to undergo, and so they must not shrink from it. Menor makes them bear their pain with fortitude and even joy. For not until they are tattooed are youths admitted into the circles of the older men in the village on terms of equality.

Besides, there are always witnesses to the operation, who spread a report of their courage among the girls, who are stern judges of a man's valor. If a man does not endure the pain as well as he should, he risks the chance of being called a coward for the rest of his life.

Cake Crumb Pudding.

Take all the stale cake on hand and crumb it up. Pare, core and chop four tart apples, mix apples and crumbs. Add a half cup sugar, a can of pineapple drained and chopped, a tablespoon of butter cut up, a grating of nutmeg, the drained pineapple juice and the juice of a lemon, and a little grated rind. Pour into a buttered pudding dish and bake about a half hour.
